MARIE FAIRBANKS, NAMED IN MITCHELL DIVORCE SUIT

MRS. MARIE FAIRBANKS. (Boston Post Photo)

MRS. FAIRBANKS AGAIN ON STAND

Mrs. Marie Fairbanks, named by Mrs Eva Mitchell in her divorce libel against her husband, Edward L. Mitchell, resumed the stand when court opened today in East Cambridge and one of her denials of the allegations of improper conduct made against her by Mrs. Mitchell.

In her examination yesterday afternoon she specifically denied all charges that had been made.

Her examination this morning by Mr. Proctor covered the details of the last few years' acquaintance between herself and Mr. Mitchell, and she was then crossed examined by Attorney Charles W. Bartlett.

A throng of women from Medford was in the courtroom to hear her testimony.

SUICIDE IN CELL IN CAMBRIDGE JAIL

Jeremiah Bresnahan, aged thirty-nine, of No. 25 Winslow street, Cambridge, committed suicide in his cell at police station No. 1, Cambridge, by hanging himself to the cell door with a blanket. The affair is clouded in mystery. Although it occurred yesterday afternoon, the police officials refused to saying anything about the news until to-day.

Bresnahan was arrested yesterday noon by Constable Walter Porter in Harvard square. He was taken to the station house and placed in a cell, charged with being drunk.

MONARCHISTS FAIL IN PORTUGUESE RAID

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Reports that a monarchist army of 40,000 men had invaded Portugal were declared at the Portuguese legation here to-day to be absolutely without foundation. Minister Gomez in receipt of the following telegram from Lisbon: "The popular revolution has failed completely and the conspirators have been arrested. The government is prepared to take energetic measures to repress any further conspiracy. Absolute tranquility prevails."

BREWER'S LEAD IS REDUCED IN RECOUNT

Recounts of the vote cast in several Republican contests in the city primaries Tuesday, made today at the office of the Election Commissioners, No. 1 Bowdoin street, resulted in the plurality of Edward W. Emerson, Republican nominee for the Senate in the Ninth district, being reduced from twenty to seven votes. His opponent was Dana J. Fenley. This was the only change.

BOSTON UNIONS AID FLOOD VICTIMS

The trade unions of Boston today started a relief fund for the sufferers of the Austin flood, $10 being forwarded by the label committee of Cigarmakers' Union 97. The executive committee of the Central Labor Union will send $25 tonight. It is expected that other unions will forward donations after their regular meetings are held.

DOGS CAN'T BARK— LEGALLY—IN QUINCY

A dog can't bark in Quincy hereafter—not legally—though a rooster may crow. The Quincy City Council has passed an ordinance, taking effect to-day, that no person shall keep a dog that howls, barks or bites, to the disturbance of neighbors, under penalty of a fine not to exceed $10.

The Prayer of Pope Pius: "Almighty God, Protect Those True Soldiers of Religion"

ROME, Oct. 3.—The Pope approves of the occupation of Tripoli and Cyrenaica by Italy. He is convinced that it will benefit civilization and missionary work in those countries and will put an end to slave trading. He exhorts the faithful to pray for Italy's success. He is deeply interested in the report that all missionaries are remaining at their posts. When he heard it, in great emotion he knelt and exclaimed:

"Almighty God, protect those true soldiers of religion!"

CAPTAIN HAINS IS A FREE MAN

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Captain Peter C. Hains, son of William E. Ar-ols, walked out of prison to-day a free man, following the pardon of Hains from Governor Dix. Hains left the prison at 9:30 a. m., accompanied by his father-in-law, Captain Hains, and another friend, and staggered out to the light of a glorious, sunny day, to feel into the arms of his aged father, General Peter C. Hains, who had been in standing since last evening. Tears filled the eyes of both. Old general Hains folded his son on his outstretched arms and sobbed aloud.

"Are we ready to go?" asked General Hains after controlling his emotion.

"Most certainly," the Surgeon-General replied. "Come," the old warrior said, as he took his son gently by the arm.

Captain Hains, wearing a blue suit of clothes which he discarded when he enlisted 28 years ago, May 18, 1906, and which was now much too large for him, gathered together a few personal belongings and walked out to the carriage.

They were then driven to Scarborough, where they boarded a train for New York. Upon arriving there they took another train for Washington, where Captain Hains is to meet his mother and children.

"I can't say a word," said the captain, while waiting for a train at Scarborough. "I would like to say something, but conditions forbid it. I am glad I am free. I owe a debt of gratitude to the Governor. I feel that justice is being done me. All I am now thinking of is seeing my mother and children."

Asked as to his plans for the future, he said he had none.

"I am going to work," he added. "I don't know what I will do, but I want hard work."

SWAMPSCOTT WANTS WHISTLING STOPPED

The Railroad Commission to-day gave a hearing to a number of residents of the Phillips Beach and Beachmont sections of Swampscott and Marblehead on their protest against the locomotive whistling of the Swampscott branch of the Boston & Maine system. It was said that the two grade crossings near these stations are both protected, one by gates and the other by a flagman, and that whistling is unnecessary. General Manager Frank Barr of the railroad company suggests that this change did not eliminate all danger, as accidents still happen at what railroads call "protected crossings."

'L' SEEKS APPROVAL OF NEW BOND ISSUE

The Boston Elevated Railway Company to-day petitioned the Railroad Commission to ratify the action of its board of directors in voting to issue additional bonds to the amount of $5,000,000 for the purpose of meeting part of the expense which the company is to incur for new construction work. The company states that its outstanding bonds at present aggregate $15,200,000.

SELL COLLEGE'S ATHLETIC FIELD

The Boston College athletic field on Massachusetts avenue, near Everett square, Dorchester, the scene of numerous battles on gridiron and diamond, was to-day sold to the Edison Company of Boston. The price was approximately $100,000. Although contracts for a college in future will be held on the new athletic field at Newton, where the new Boston College buildings are now in process of construction.

INSURGENTS TO PUT UP FIGHT

There may be a fight on the floor of the Republican State Convention in Tremont Temple, the preserve over the G. O. P. policy drawn upon which Louis A. Frothingham will seek to defeat Governor Foss.

The contest, if it comes, and it is extremely probable, will be between Insurgent and Standpat Republicans. Former Representative Herbert A. Wood of Cambridge, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State at the primaries by the standpat of the office, has guided Chairman Samuel J. Elder of the convention committee on resolutions to the planks that the insurgents demand shall be put in the party platform.

Mr. Wood was given a hearing by the committee on resolutions at the Parker House last night. Those who attended the meeting say that Mr. Wood was given to understand that the insurgents demand that they be recognized in the party councils and that they be nominated for office more frequently.

That a plank in favor of the Initiative and the referendum be put in the platform.

That United States Senators be elected by the people and not by the Legislature.

That the electoral college be done away with and the people elect the President again by the method of the United States by direct vote.

That the Federal Senatorial be abolished.

That there be quadrennial elections of State officers, with a provision for the recall.

That a plank favoring woman suffrage be put in the platform.

That the primary law enacted by the 1911 Legislature be extended in certain particulars, reducing the expense of candidates and electors, and that the State issue at its own expense a pamphlet stating the candidates and the principles they stand for.

Will Probably "Stand Pat."

Mr. Wood's demands on behalf of the insurgents include about everything that the Lodge machine does not want, and it is doubtful if the committee on resolutions will stand for many, if any, of the proposed planks.

As Frothingham polled more votes at the primaries than Walker and Wilfe-ley, the insurgents contend he is entitled to stand pat.

Frothingham is not a fight on the committee does is not, say the Republican campaign plan is to have "harmony."

Frothingham election chances appear small now, although will no doubt be diminished if the insurgents don't support him at the polls.

HELD FOR BROTHERS DEATH AT WEYMOUTH

Peter Cassette pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering his brother Nicholas, in a hut on Carroll street, East Weymouth, in the Quincy Court to-day. He was held without bail for a hearing Saturday. Peter was arrested at Dover and Washington streets late last night by Policemen Ryan and Morrissey of the East Dedham street station. He came to Boston to bid farewell to his four children, who have been in the St. Vincent de Paul Orphan Asylum since his wife died several months ago.

CARPENTER'S AXE STARTS FIRE BELL

While making repairs on the third floor of the building at No. 62 Summer street to-day a carpenter chopped away some wires, one of which connected with the fire alarm service, causing the sounding of automatic box No. 442. The alarm brought several pieces of fire apparatus to the building. There was much excitement among the score or more women employed in the building.

GIRL BURGLAR ON PROBATION

Catherine B. Cummings, the fourteen-year-old Dorchester schoolgirl who was accused by Patrolman Roughneen of entering the home of a neighbor with jewelry, was placed on probation by Judge Cabot in the Dorchester Juvenile Court to-day after Attorney James E. O'Donnell, her attorney, had withdrawn her previous plea and entered one of guilty.

It is agreed that her parents, who live at No. 1370 Dorchester avenue, will move out of the district and put Catherine in a private school.

On July 24 she entered the home of Mrs. Annie J. Douglas at No. 1,368 Dorchester avenue and stole a silver pin valued at $2, a diamond ring valued at $25, a gold watch and chain valued at $40 and $5 in cash. She was arrested by Roughneen and held in $500 bail. When she was arraigned in court on the larceny charge it was claimed she went into Mrs. Douglas's house with intent to steal. But there was no evidence that she took anything.

Attorney O'Connell said he had talked over the case with Police Captain Hall and both thought it would be well to place the case on file, or the girl on probation, if her family took her out of Dorchester and put her in a private school.

Judge Cabot will put her on probation until April 3 next, or for six months.

Catherine is a pretty girl and came into court to-day wearing a blue coat and skirt and a white hat. Her hair was tied behind with ribbons and she looked like a very demure little miss. She kept her handkerchief over her face in fear of photographers and raced away from the courthouse so that she could not be "snapped" as soon as she was released.

FIVE PROGRESSIVES GIVE UP NOMINATION

Five persons receiving primary nominations for the House of Representatives as "Democratic Progressives" have filed with Secretary of State Langtry notice of their intention to withdraw from such nomination. They are: Robert F. Brown, Millbury, Eighth Worcester District; John W. Mercormack, Boston, Twenty-third Suffolk District; George Leo Fleming, Roxbury, Twenty-third Suffolk District; George E. Walker, Wakefield, Twenty-first Middlesex District; J. Bernard Boland, North Adams, Berkshire District.

FOSS AND WILLIAMS CONFER ON PLATFORM

George Fred Williams, who will write the Democratic platform, to-day was closeted for an hour with Governor Foss in the Governor's office. The different planks were carefully considered, and it is understood that the first draft presented by Williams was agreed to by the Governor in every important particular.

THIEVES RANSACK BROOKLINE HOME

Gold beads, necklace, gold bar, watch and chain and numerous pieces of silverware, together with $25, were among the articles stolen from the house of Howard Gilmore, No. 97 Holland road, in the most exclusive section of Brookline. The theft was discovered to-day when the members of the family found their rooms ransacked.

GIRL MISSING FROM HOME AT ROXBURY

Daphne Moore, an eleven-year-old girl of No. 100 Sterling street, Roxbury, is missing. The little girl disappeared last night. She attended the Hyde School, and after returning home went out to play in the neighborhood. At 5 o'clock her mother went to look for her, but her daughter was not to be found. No trace has yet been found of the girl.

AMERICAN LEAGUE BALL PARK, New York, Oct. 3.—The Boston Red Sox clashed with the Highlanders this afternoon in a doubleheader, made necessary by the postponement of yesterday's game. Clear but cold weather favored the fence, but kept the crowd down to the limits of the hardiest kind of fans.

The two games to-day and the one to-morrow will end the Boston visits here, and the Red Sox are anxious to take at least two of the games.

Their only chance to climb before the end of the season depends upon their winning a majority of the six games remaining, providing Chicago loses.

NO CHANCE FOR CUB BOYS TO LEAD OTHERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—More than a half dozen games this year stories have emanated from different big league cities that star members of the Cubs are being besieged by team owners with offers of managerial berths. The Cubs who were approached regarding such positions were Joseph Tinker, James T. Sheckard and John Evers. There has been more talk regarding this trio coming from Cincinnati than from any other point.

The star players on every team in both the American and National Leagues have had alluring baits hung up before them.

President Charles Webb Murphy entertains this creative discussion in any winding organization, and will in the near future do everything he can to put a stop to the practice.

GERALDINE FARRAR DENIES BETROTHAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A wireless from the steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm says that Geraldine Farrar, who is a passenger on the liner with Antonio Scotti, wishes to deny the report just published in Europe to the effect that she is married to the Italian singer. Miss Farrar says her mother's illness in Paris and the consequent delay in her own sailing made possible the circumstances whereby Scotti found himself and themselves fellow-passengers, both arriving in America well in advance of the annual invasion of operatic song birds in order to undertake concert trips.

TRIPOLI UNDER HEAVY FIRE OF ITALIAN GUNS

MALTA, Oct. 3.—The Italian fleet to-day bombarded Tripoli, opening fire on the city at 11:30 a. m., when the three days of grace granted to the garrison in which to haul down the Turkish flag expired. It was reported by wireless this afternoon that passing ships at sea could distinguish the fire of heavy artillery.

It was Italy's plan of attack to concentrate the fire upon the Turkish defences, where the antique three-inch Krupp guns, mounted in the old Turkish fortresses, could make no return to the fire of Italy's great modern cannon.

GLASCOW, Scotland, Oct. 3.—A business house here this afternoon received confirmation of the bombardment of Tripoli by the Italian fleet in a cable dispatch from Jurba Island, off Tunis. The dispatch read:

"Heliograph message from Tripoli says bombardment has begun. Italian ships bombarding several places and all inhabitants fleeing."

ROME, Oct. 3.—A dispatch to the newspaper Tribuna this afternoon states that the Turkish transport Savah, bound for Tripoli loaded with troops and ammunition, has been captured by the Italian cruiser Marco Polo.

ROME, Oct. 3.—Reports from Malta state that Italian warships have shelled and sunk the Turkish transport Derna in the harbor of Tripoli.

ALL CHRISTENDOM PRAYS FOR ITALY.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Pope Pius's prayer and the prayers of all Christians in behalf of Italian arms, as against those of Turkey, have made a profound impression on the world, and have served to place the Turkish nation where she belongs—a nation abhorred for her cruelties.

When the Pope learned of the occupation of Tripoli and Cyrenaica by the Italian soldiers and that the missionaries were still at their posts, he fell on his knees and offered this fervent petition: "ALMIGHTY GOD, PROTECT THOSE SOLDIERS OF RELIGION."

Word comes from Rome that the Pope believes that action of Italy will make for civilization. He believes that through the occupation of Tripoli slave trading in Europe will be ended. The Pope hopes that the objects aimed at by Italy will be accomplished without the shedding of blood, but if blood is shed it will flow in a holy cause.

A dispatch from Vienna to-day says that Italy will make use of aeroplanes at Tripoli. This will be the first actual use that has ever been made of these navigators of the sky in real warfare. Italy has ten tested aeroplanes, eight monoplanes and two biplanes, and they will be shipped in a few days to Tripoli, accompanied by some of the most skilled airmen in the Italian army.

Neither Italy nor Turkey can gain anything by prolonging the war since the occupation of Tripoli becomes a fact. Turkey cannot anywhere reach out to deal an effective blow at her opponent, and resistance in Tripoli must ultimately succumb with Italy in command of the sea.

The Kaiser is understood to have urged the Turks to accept the loss of Tripoli and make peace, promising them if they accept his advice to give them his support in the future.

A telegram to The Daily Mail from Constantinople says:

"The German Emperor telegraphed today recommending Turkey to accept the Italian ultimatum, adding that Germany will stand by Turkey later, circumstances permitting.

"A responsible government official says that the government is pessimistic, as peace seems only purchasable by an impossible surrender. The replies of the powers to the last Turkish note give no hope of intervention."

Germany's Attitude.

The Daily Mail Berlin correspondent says:

"The position in regard to German intervention between Italy and Turkey is, as far as is ascertainable here, as follows:

"Germany is actively endeavoring through her Ambassador at Constantinople, to persuade Turkey to accept peace which Germany could propose to Italy with a prospect of success. There will be no offer of mediation until Italy has fulfilled the object for which she went to war; namely, the military occupation of Tripoli. Official quarters here are most emphatic on this point. No power can or will commit what Italy would undoubtedly consider an act of hostility by seeking to frustrate the long cherished ambition of Italy to establish herself in North Africa, but Germany is already preparing the ground, and there is every reason to believe that as soon as Italy has occupied the Tripolitan coast she will be ready with an offer of mediation based on a full knowledge of the additional sacrifices Italy will take and the maximum that Turkey will give.

Reports of An Armistice.

"It is believed that the Kaiser's telegram to the Sultan in reply to a telegraphic request from the Sultan that he would intervene to prevent bloodshed and a encouragement and assurances that Germany was doing what she could."

Daily Mail's correspondent at Rome says:

"Reports of an armistice and of mediation continue to be received from Constantinople and elsewhere. I learn from an excellent source that the armistice reports are premature. The war will not last long, but it is too soon to talk of peace. If proposals to that end exist, they do not emanate from Italy, nor from Turkey, and Italy will accept them only if Turkey gives effect to the demands of Italy."

The official Italian attitude is as follows: The solution of the troubles lies entirely with Turkey. If the question of Tripoli is settled conformably with the wishes of Italy, there is no other matter in dispute and the breach can be healed at once."

FOREIGNERS FLEE FROM TRIPOLI IN FEAR OF ATTACK

ROME, Oct. 3.—A long special dispatch from Tripoli describes picturesquely the appearance of the city "on the eve of Italian occupation."

The native population, it appears, is taking the course of events with stolid indifference, although the foreign population has fled and most of the business section of the city is closed up in view of the danger of shells and charges from bombardment. The dispatch says:

"The landing party is under a party of big Turks is seen toiling on the ramparts half hidden by the smoke of their guns. They have hoisted a red flag, with a hammer with a half-crescent in the corner, above the red fortifications.

"Close by the flag is a sentinel, while behind the parapets is seen a group of soldiers watching from the summit of the castle. They are not worried or nervous. Their air is one of profound indifference. For them this day is no different from any other day.

"Over in the barracks officers and gendarmes, also in the doorways, observing with characteristic Oriental carelessness the passing of little isolated groups of frightened foreign traders, their arms filled with panic. Women with infants in their arms are in the heels of the men.

"Parties of soldiers are seen along the nearly deserted streets. The shops are closed and the windows barred. Peace for Tripoli is settled conformably with the

60,000 ARABS PREPARE TO FIGHT ITALIANS IN TPIPOLI

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Word just received from Tripoli says that the Turks and Arabs are expending behind the city.

Sixty thousand Arabs, said to be armed with Mausers, hold a strong position fifty miles behind the town, in a country which is an excellent natural stronghold. An advance guard is stationed twenty miles from Tripoli.

The Turkish garrison has left the forts.

Enver Bey, the leader of the Young Turk revolution, who is the Turkish military attache here, before departing for Constantinople, told friends that he expected to be sent to Tripoli by way of Egypt to organize the resistance in the interior.

Enver Bey, who has Arab blood in his veins, counts upon the moral support of the Senussi Arabs, but his chief reliance will be the Tearag nomads, whose chastity and bravery especially fit them for guerilla warfare.

Information from Tripoli says that the Italian Consul is authority for the statement that the bombardment began to-day.

Czar Send News.

The correspondents are under the strictest censorship and are not permitted to disclose the names of the blockading ships or the military movements.

Of all the Italian colony in Tripoli there remain only two monks and two nuns, who are caring for the invalids in the hospitals.

Turkish soldiers guard the Italian Consulate and the Italian business houses. When the last Italians left the consulate on Saturday, after having spent the night under the protection of the German flag, the streets were strongly lined with Turkish troops.

Crowds of natives had gathered and hooted and jeered angrily. There were evidences of violent rage on the part of the Arabs, and the soldiers prevented a possible massacre. The German Consul escorted refugees to the boats.

Immediately the refugees left the shore a boat from one of the cruisers took ashore an officer, who notified the authorities that the blockade would begin at noon and the bombardment three hours later.

A dispatch to the Tribuna from Malta says that a steamship which arrived there at 6 o'clock last evening brought the news that the Turkish squadron there had been shelled and sunk in the harbor of Tripoli. It is considered certain that unless the bombardment would not begin until to-day in order to give the population time to withdraw to a place of safety.

Italians' Peace Plan.

The Rome correspondent of the Tageblatt telegraphs that Italy will readily accept the mediation of Germany as soon as her prestige is heightened by the success of the Tripolitan expedition.

The basis of negotiation will be Turkey's consent to Italy's occupation of Tripoli in return for a money indemnity and the recognition of the Sultan's sovereignty on the model of Egypt.

It is hoped there will be no repetition

GIRL IS CHURCH ORGANIST AT 14

Little Miss Mary Castaldini Shows Herself to Be a Musical Marvel.

By SYBIL WARNE.

Have you ever stood gazing at a great, ponderous pipe-organ and wondered how any one could possibly play such a wonderful instrument with all its layers of keys, its numerous stops and complication of pedals? And can you imagine a little fourteen-year-old girl becoming master of all that and drawing from this wondrous complication the very souls of the harmony?

There is just such a wonderful girl in Boston and her name is Mary Castaldini, the prettiest, most self-possessed little lady you ever met; with a face alive with wit-sentience and from which gaze the most soulful hazel eyes imaginable. Her hair! It is one great mass of what might be described as veiled gold and though she has just been appointed organist to the lower church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice in Prince street, an honor which would turn the head of many an older woman, she is sweetly simple and happy over it all as most girls of her age would be over a new doll or a new set of hair ribbons.

Miss Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Castaldini of No. 31 Mt. Vernon street, Charlestown, and she seems to think nothing of the fact that she has played only two years and is the youngest girl on record to acquire such distinction.

"I love my music very much," she said when I talked to her "and want to keep on with it always. I have been taking piano lessons for about two years, but it is only recently that I commenced to play the organ. Miss Annie Marcella, who has been the organist in the church up to now, is the one who taught me. She's going to be married, so Miss Sternlieb is going to take her place in the upper church and I'm going to take her place in the lower church.

"I'm in the second year of Charlestown High, where I'm taking a business course and after school I practice an hour on the piano and an hour on the organ. I like my school work, but I love my music. My favorite piece is 'Santa Lucia,' and with that she seated herself at the piano and played the well known Italian air as I have never heard it played before.

But how she finds time to attend her studies and accomplish so much in music is a wonder, for besides all this work she's the most perfect of little mothers to her six brothers and sisters, all younger than herself and ranging in ages from Edith, who is thirteen, to Josephine, who is scarcely two.

But she gave her secret away while talking. She simply charms them with her music, for she confessed between blushes and smiles, "Whenever I want to keep the children quiet I play to them, and that always works."

She promptly demonstrated the truth of her statement when little Josephine commenced to cry and she played for her benefit the catchy "Alexa Rimag." Wonder of wonders. The crying ceased; the baby toddled over to the piano, looked up into the wonder-worker's face and commenced to laugh and coo. Her sorrows had fled and once more the world looked bright.

I was only four years old when my parents left Bologna for America," Miss Castaldini continued, "so I don't remember much about Italy. When I was five years old I went to St. Anthony's School in Prince street and I was there until I graduated last year. I loved it there; the sisters were so nice and kind to me.

"But I'm so happy that I shall be able to play the organ next week. I'll have to play at early mass and at 9 o'clock mass on Sundays.

"Perhaps some day Miss Sternlieb will get married, too," she said jovially, as though the thought had struck her for the first time, "and then I'll be organist in the upper church. Wouldn't that be wonderful."

The "Gaek" is back at Harvard.

This is the name by which he is familiarly known by his college mates, who attach a great deal of his royal highness. He is listed in the Harvard catalog modestly as "Gaekwar." When he is in his native home of Baroda, India, he is a vastly important young man, being none the less than the son of the Gaekwar of Baroda, ruler of that State.

His first name is Jaishigh, or Jaisin, as it is sometimes spelled. In fact, the Prince's name is spelled and pronounced in a variety of ways, according to the fertile fancy of whatever reporter happens to be on the job.

The Gaek" has just returned for his "sophomore year." He lived in Westmorly Hall last year. This is one of the most exclusive of the so-called "Gold Coast" dormitories. This year "The Gaek" is to live in Thayer Hall, another exclusively palace for rich men's sons. As a rich man's son "The Gaek" qualifies with little success. His royal father's wealth is estimated anywhere from $15,000,000 up. One of the family pocketknives alone is valued at $16,000,000.

BOY COMES BY DOCTOR'S ORDER

NEW LONDON, Ct., Oct. 3.—Medical friends here of Dr. Wilbur Kinney Tingley of Norwich are convinced that the famous Dr. Schenk has nothing on him in the matter of guessing what the stork is going to bring, and several of the medicos have lost bets in consequence.

Just a year ago Dr. Tingley gave a check to Norwich society by marrying Miss Ethel Ryan, a blonde from Montreal, who had been a nurse at the Backus Hospital, where the doctor had been visiting surgeon.

The doctor and his bride spent their honeymoon on an automobile trip of several months in the West to let the situation which their marriage had caused subside.

When it became known that there was an interesting event expected in the doctor's household, the happy bridegroom received his friends that the story was certain to bring him a son to inherit the family estate.

The good old bird from Holland must have read Dr. Tingley's note on the time for bit-o-miles gifts, and it made a hurry-call to the Tingley home, leaving Master John Kinney Tingley.

OIL HEIRESS BREAKS TROTH

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The engagement of Nila Florman, who says he is a descendant of kings, to marry Miss Helena Stallo, joint heiress with her sister Laura, to the fortune of the late Alexander McDonald, Standard Oil magnate, has been broken.

Miss Stallo, in a letter written from her Summer home in Prince Edward Island, a day or so ago, informed the young man she had decided that they would not be congenial as husband and wife and she therefore broke the engagement.

The real reason for her change of mind, her friends in this city declare, was the discovery that Mr. Florman's father had been a messenger in this city and that his stenographer had been a masseuse.

Edmund K. Stallo, father of Helena Stallo, said though his representative in Paris is Waldorf-Astor.

"It is true the engagement of Miss Helena Stallo and Mr. Florman has been broken, but I can give no reason for it except that of the ordinary fight every woman has to change her mind."

Tightens Her Skin—Loses Her Wrinkles

From Social Mirror.

"I want to tell you how easily and quickly I got rid of my wrinkles," writes one of our correspondents. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful appearance, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows.

"The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which I found could be procured at drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. After bathing my face in this hot cure the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the deep crow's feet were affected, as were the sagging creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe that anything could produce results like these, but several to whom I recommended the remedy have been similarly helped, including an elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."

BOSTON IS IN GREAT FIRE PERIL, DECLARES REPORT OF EXPERTS

"Such a conflagration as has been experienced in Elizabeth, Chelsea, Baltimore, San Francisco, Portland and Bangor may be expected in Boston at any time," according to the report issued to-day by the Committee on Fire Prevention appointed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce to investigate building conditions and make recommendations for changes. After an exhaustive investigation, the committee recommends:

"The enactment of city ordinances which shall prohibit the construction of any third-class buildings (buildings constructed within and without, wholly or in part, of wood) within the city limits.

"The enactment of a law prohibiting the construction of any but fireproof buildings within the congested business district.

"The passage of a law requiring all second or third-class buildings now existing within the congested business district to be equipped with sprinkler service, except that houses of habitation, not used in any portion for any other purpose, need not be so equipped, and that hotels and lodging houses need be so equipped only in the basement, first story and public assembling rooms or assembly rooms.

"The passage of a law creating a Fire Bureau empowered to examine into every fire and make a published report thereon, giving in detail the cause of the fire and laying the exact responsibility in such the same manner as the coroner's jury treats a crime.

"The passage of a law regulating the handling of fire apparatus by requiring anything previous to approval by formal act of said fire org an.

"The institution of a high pressure fire service carried through the streets of the congested portion of the city.

"Doing away with fire limits as conditions will permit, with the wooden and cumbersome system of inflammable engines and machinery operated by horses, and the substitution of well-placed fire apparatus.

"The first three of these recommendations are designed by the committee to reduce the fire construction hazard; the fourth and fifth, to prevent carelessness or deliberate incendiarism; and the last two, to improve the efficiency of the fire fighting system.

"The chief cause of the big fire loss in the country as compared to Europe, the committee finds, lies in the greater proportion of buildings constructed partly or wood. In Europe, the average fire loss per capita is only thirty-three cents. The same here is $2.50. Boston's per capita fire loss is greater.

Big Buildings Half Fire.

Even in our larger cities, where fireproof buildings are becoming general, there are great numbers of buildings wholly or in part of wood. "There are no third-class buildings more possible a conflagration hazard at any time," the report says, "than the committee declares Boston may expect a disastrous fire any time.

"In the Dorchester and Roxbury sections, and other outlying parts of the city, the committee finds great numbers of houses of the third class, constructed largely of wood, both within and without. "It is more than likely," says the report, "that there will have a disastrous fire in the Dorchester and Roxbury districts, which will burn up almost entirely of cheap wooden apartments, placed very close to one another in continuous blocks."

In the course of their investigations, the committee found that a building exactly similar to the familiar "three-decker" may be built of hollow concrete blocks at practically the same price, while a conflagration is more expensive by 15 per cent. The recommendation is that further construction of these wooden buildings be stopped or regulated.

Discussing the congested district of the city, the committee finds that so-called first-class buildings, while not absolutely fireproof, are of the greatest value as a check to a fire. It has been shown that it is practicable to build a structure which cannot be ruined even by the fiercest fire, which a modern steam fire department will damaged and whose efficiency as a fire check has been thoroughly demonstrated."

Second-class buildings in this congested district should be equipped with sprinklers throughout, both for the protection of themselves and the neighboring buildings, and the report points out that such a step would lower insurance premiums considerably.

HAVE A STRAWBERRY? AND OCTOBER, TOO!

SPRINGFIELD Mass., Oct. 3.—Nearly a pint of strawberries were picked to-day by C. P. Kibbe of Walnut street in a field in West Suffield, Ct. The berries have the size and flavor of June fruit.

Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide in the quart pail or basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently nursing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for inflamed bunions, sweaty feet, aching feet, chilblains and frost-bites. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. Calocide works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Calocide compound is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

MAURICE MURPHY WHOSE DEATH IS MOURNED BY MANY

MAURICE F. MURPHY.

FUNERAL RITES FOR FR. MURPHY

Archbishop O'Connell officiated to-day at the funeral mass for the Rev. Timothy J. Murphy, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, Salem.

Fully 1,000 persons, unable to gain admittance to the crowded church, stood on the steps and in the square outside the church during the services. The body was brought to Boston and the burial was in Calvary Cemetery at Dorchester.

The body was removed from the parochial residence on Union street, Salem, and to the main aisle of the church, close to the altar. It was encased in a massive gray casket covered with black broadcloth. The body was escorted by a cross-bearer, altar boys, Sisters of Charity and the Rev. Fathers Muldoon, Cronin, Hurnhy and Brennan of the Immaculate Conception Church; Father Dunn, Dever and Gleason of St. James Church, Father Pare of St. Agnes', Father Richards of St. Joseph's, Father Sullivan of Danvers, Father Lyons of Marblehead and Father Mulcahy, who is now staying in Salem.

Solemn high pontifical mass was celebrated by the Rev. Michael J. McGill of St. James' Church, assisted by the Rev. Father Herlihy of the Immaculate Conception as deacon, Rev. Father Muldoon of the Immaculate Conception as sub-deacon and Rev. Father Brennan of the Immaculate Conception master of ceremonies. The eulogy was pronounced by Archbishop O'Connell over the deceased.

Patrick J. Malley presided at the organ, and a choir of priests' voices was conducted by Rev. M. J. Scanlon of the Cathedral.

The active pallbearers were Rev. William H. McSweeny, Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society; Charles A. Murphy, Ancient Order Hibernians; John B. Hird, Jr., Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters; Patrick J. Keiley, Holy Name Society; Joseph F. Costello, Knights of Columbus; John T. Mullen, Knights of Immaculate Conception.

All these societies joined in the funeral procession from the church to the railroad station, where the body was placed in a special car and brought to Boston, accompanied by a large number of priests, conducted by Benedictus at the grave.

HUNDREDS DROWN IN NORTH SEA GALE

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 3.—A heavy loss of life and considerable damage was caused in Holland and other countries when telegraphic communication was restored to-day, by the storm that broke over the North Sea coast on Sunday, and that has been raging ever since, obscuring in the village of Rozalia 1,200 were lost or damaged. Twenty-eight bodies have been washed up in one village.

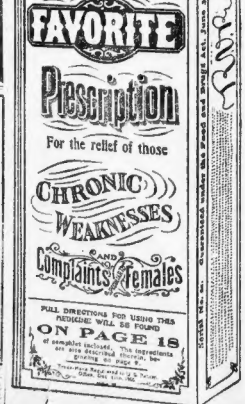
MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR PROF. PARSONS

A memorial service in honor of Professor Percy Parsons, the well-known journalist and political writer, will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the Cleveland Avenue Congregational Church. There will be a musical program and remarks by Miss Ida Prentiss, Harry Glenn and Dudley Blomfield, an address by the Rev. Charles F. Dole.



World's Dispensary Medical Association, R.V. Pierce, M. D., Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Woman's True Friend

Experimenting with new and untried medicines is foolish, and often dangerous. It would take a medicine more than forty years, to prove itself so universally good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During all that time it has been woman's favorite medicine—a restorative tonic, uplifting and invigorating the nervous and discouraged and giving them the final touch of perfect health.

Women use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in preference to all other advocated medicines for it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs—is not anything like advertised, secret, or patent medicines—does not claim to be able to do impossible things.

THE ONE REMEDY for women devised by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in woman's ailments, and adapted to her delicate organism.

THE ONE REMEDY good enough that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper.

You can't afford to allow yourself to be overpersuaded into accepting any secret nostrum as a substitute for this honest square-deal non-secret medicine. Don't do it. No honest druggist will attempt to cheat you in this way. He who does should be rebuked and avoided. Doctors prescribe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for their worst cases because they know what it contains and know its ingredients to be of the very best.

It's well now and then to gently clear out bowel germs that breed weakness, cause foul breath, loss of appetite, dizziness and headache. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep bowels sweet and clean. Recommended by druggists because of their purity, goodness, and active gentleness.

MANY MOURN M. F. MURPHY

Maurice F. Murphy, newspaperman and ball commissioner, is dead.

His death ends a promising life. Mr. Murphy was only twenty-five years old, but in his chosen fields of work he was well advanced. He was a sporting reporter for the AMERICAN. He possessed wide and intimate acquaintance with men high in State and city affairs. Veterans in State House reporting circles judged his marked ability as a gatherer and recorder of political news.

When he was appointed ball commissioner two years ago he was the youngest man in the State to hold that responsible office. He discharged its duties ably.

The fullness of Mr. Murphy's life on the baseball side makes his untimely death particularly painful. He was married a few years ago to Miss Minnie Gillis of South Boston, a teacher of reading in the Boston public schools. There are two children, a boy of about two years old and a baby girl of three months. With his young wife and his little ones Mr. Murphy was very happy. Despite his keen activity in his work and the many demands upon his time, his chief interests were in his home and family.

Brave Fight for Life.

Mr. Murphy made a brave fight for life. A few years ago he was seized with illness that threatened his life. He made a recovery from this and gained in health and strength. He lived unselfishly that he might restrain the nervous energy which was driving him forward recklessly.

Six weeks ago, however, he was stricken with typhoid fever while in the bosom of his family at their summer home, Monponsett. He was brought to Boston City Hospital, where he strove gallantly but unsuccessfully to resist the disease. He died at 9 o'clock last night.

His last appearance in public was at a clambake given by the staff of a Springfield newspaper. The two guests of honor were one of the invited guests. Other Boston baseball men were also present. Mr. Murphy's contributions to the genial humor of the occasion were the life of the feeding.

Maurice F. Murphy was a Boston boy born and bred. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Murphy, of Dorchester. He attended Boston schools and was graduated from Boston College. He was one of his collegiate studies better than most men do. It was needed in the city room of the AMERICAN to-day that on occasion of any argument concerning some point in baseball Mr. Murphy could produce the original Greek, and even gave the page and the line, within the quick occasion.

Won Quick Success.

Electing newspaper work as a livelihood Mr. Murphy began as a district reporter for the South End, a territory with which he was naturally familiar. He joined the staff of the AMERICAN. His ability was quickly recognized. He was in time placed to be State House reporter. In his duties he studied the trend of legislation and State officials alike. His pungent specialties on political affairs were widely read.

After his marriage Mr. Murphy established a home in Dorchester, spending the Summers at Monponsett. Last Fall they moved into town, taking a flat at 45 East Concord street, South End.

There is expected to be a large funeral for Mr. Murphy's family. Newspaper men and baseball followed the daily reports of Mr. Murphy's condition closely, spoke with sympathy of the loss of one of their young but ardent members.

The funeral will take place Thursday from the home on East Concord street, with high mass of requiem following at the Cathedral.

MONEY IN RAT HOLES.

You had as well put your money in a rat hole as to spend it for catching rat devices, the so-called harmless exterminators. The thing that won't kill anything else won't likely kill rats and mice, the thing that would dry up, explode or summarily rats and mice. They would not be likely to eat (and it would not be likely to dry them up if they did), so your would still have your rats and mice. No matter what the "jushaw" or "substitutor may say to you, don't see you get, "Rough on Rats," recognized by the people of all nations as the Unbeatable Exterminator. 15c., 25c., 75c. boxes, at Druggists.

THE SECRET.

Rough on Rats (to powder), the unbeatable exterminator, kills the rats and mice, but never fools the buyer; the secret is, you (not the makers) do the eating. Buy your flour, paste and grease separately at 6c. a pound. Take a little of your own mixing; pay for poison only, then you get results. Not poisonous to handle, only so when eaten. Equally effective for rats, roaches, ants, flies, bedbugs, prairie dogs and other "pests." Don't be in the hands. Sold by druggists everywhere. 15c., 25c., 75c. boxes, at Druggists.

ENTER BIG BOAT CARNIVAL TODAY

Tremendous enthusiasm is being shown in the great Columbus Night Water Carnival and Motorboat Parade, which will be held in Charles River basin on the evening of October 12, by the AMERICAN co-operating in the celebration of the holiday.

The committee handling the entries sends out the following notice:

Don't delay in sending in your entry. It's a big job to arrange the entries in classes and leave the proper running schedule made out so that the half million people, whom it is estimated will see the carnival, can have a smooth-running, gorgeous spectacle without any unnecessary delays in starting. The way for the motor boat enthusiast to aid himself, as well as the AMERICAN, is to GET BOAT ENTRIES IN AT ONCE—TO-DAY.

The complete success of the carnival is already assured. It costs motor boat entrants and the public absolutely nothing. Co-operate with the motor enthusiasts by sending to the AMERICAN the name of a motor boat owner and an entry blank will be mailed at once so that he or she can make an entry at once. Tell your friends about the carnival and don't let them fail to get their entry in at the next mail.

Easy to See Contest.

The AMERICAN has been asked: Can I see the parade from shore or must I get into one of the judges' fire a boat?

Here's the answer. Half a million people can see the parade in comfort. The route will pass within easily feet of the embankment over the entire course. People can stand and sit along the entire course and see with ease and comfort.

Many have sent in their entries have asked: Can we do anything besides have our boats decorated? Can we have music on board?

YES. That will add greatly to the fascination of the carnival. Hundreds of motor boats have phonographs. Some of the finest soloists, quartets and choruses stroll Boston and every Sunday the Boston leather as the motor boats skim the waves on their trips homeward. Bring along the sweet-voiced soloists, the banjo and guitar fiends, the quartets and choruses, and let's have the historic Charles ring as it never rang before with music of all kinds. Four brass bands will be distributed along the embankment and will play throughout the evening.

Class of Entries.

Prizes will be awarded to the most attractive appearing motor boats in the following classes:

Cabin boats, 20 to 35 feet in length.
Open boats, 20 to 35 feet in length.
Open launts, under 20 feet.
Cabin launches, under 20 feet.
Power dories.
Speed boats, any size.
Special prizes will be awarded as follows:

Most professionally decorated motor boat.
Best decorated boat.
Most decorated launch or power boat.
Best decorated boat, 35 feet or over.
Boat containing most effectively costumed guests.

Special prize to boat club which has largest number of entries. Fifteen boats from each club must enter to win this prize and the club must be a recognized organized association with a house.

Each of these boats will carry a number which will be prominently displayed on both sides of the boat so as to be visible to those on shore and those in craft in the centre of the basin.

HERE IS THE BLANK FOR ENTRIES IN THE WATER CARNIVAL

If you wish to enter the Boston AMERICAN'S big motor boat carnival in the Charles River Basin on October 12 fill out this blank and send to Carnival Manager, Boston American:

I desire to enter the following motor boat in the carnival parade in Charles River Basin on October 12:

Owner's Name.....

How She Fooled the Doctor

Three years ago my little girl, Angie, was taken sick with scarlet fever and after fifteen days in bed, her face and limbs swelled and her eyes puffed. A leading physician here at the time, treated her without the slightest success. A sample of your Swamp-Root having been left at the house at the time, I resolved to try it, and as it agreed with her stomach I continued using it with grateful results. The inflammation began to subside after she had taken the first fifty-cent bottle, and after she took two large bottles she was pronounced cured by the doctor and has been in good health ever since. The doctor came to see her every day and examined her every second day until he pronounced her kidneys in perfect condition. Now I am sure the doctor was under the impression that I was giving my girl his medicine, but as his medicine had failed to do a bit of good, and desiring not to offend him, I did not tell him I was giving her Swamp-Root, and he did not know the difference. I did not use one drop of his medicine after I started my girl on Swamp-Root, and have always felt that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved my little girl's life, for which I am grateful.

I cannot praise it too highly.

Very truly yours,

RL TELLS OF FOUNDRY TOIL

The indignation of the people of Massachusetts over the working of women at men's tasks in foundries in this State is growing in spite of the whitewash report regarding conditions in such plants made by factory inspectors to Chief Whitney of the State police.

The public demand is for a law at the next session of the Legislature which will stop it. Candidates for political office will get rude shocks at the polls in November if they don't pledge themselves in favor of checking by law this form of white slavery. One of the things said by factory inspectors is that millionaire iron founders are not prevented by law from employing women as core-makers.

People Are Roused.

At the Faneuil Hall meeting of protest on Saturday night enough people to have filled the hall over again were turned away because they could not squeeze inside, and that indicates that the voters in this State think that a law against enslaving women is imperative.

The whitewash report is fully answered by the simple story of a woman who has worked as a moulder in the Blake-Knowles plant in East Cambridge. She tells in a plain, unvarnished way her own actual experience.

She is Rosalie Karcheska and is one of the women from Poland who have been exposed to the horrors of manual toil from which men shrink because they were forced by necessity to work cheap.

"It is two years ago that I came to this country from Poland," said Rosalie Karcheska.

"My father lived there in a small town.

MISS KARCHESKA, WHO TELLS OF LIFE AS FOUNDRY TOILER

ROSA KARCHESKA

Miss Karcheska, a toiler in the trust pump works in Cambridge, describes hardships that are met by women toilers.

There were seven children in our family. We all had to work hard. I had to get up very early in the morning and work in the fields. Sometimes I would work in the house. Sometimes I would plough and then I would hoe.

"We do things differently on our farms than I have seen here in this country.

"A stranger came to our home one evening when we were all around the house. He told my father some things about America. He said that people in that country did not have to work hard and that they were well paid.

Sails With Brother.

"This stranger came the next day and told us more about this country. I asked my father if I could go with my brother, and he did not tell me that I could go until two weeks had passed. I then went with my brother to America.

"After I got started, I was sorry to leave my home and my parents, but I told them that I would come back and see them. My brother came to East Cambridge.

"Everything seemed so strange to me. My brother got work at Squires and I went to stay with a relative of mine who had come to this country a few years ago.

"When I was here for two weeks, I wanted to go back to my own country. I cried nearly every day. My brother made fun of me and so did the children.

"I had a very sad time. I knew that I could not go home for I had no money. My brother said this to me: 'You will have to work before you run on board.'

"What to do I did not know. Next door to me was a Polish girl that used to come in to see me. She was very kind to me. She worked at Hittle's. She used to tell me what she did there, and how hard the work was. I did not want to go at first, but my brother told me that I would have to work to pay my board.

"I shovelled sand into the core boxes. I packed the core boxes with sand. I lifted the one boxes, and put the steel covering over them before they were turned over for the sand core."

DISCOVER GOLD IN LABRADOR

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 3.—Rich placer of virgin gold have been located in Baffin's Land and Labrador.

The Kite, which has been sailing in the North, is back. The men who chartered the boat were R. S. Elmsley of Ottawa, Ontario, and Richard White of St. John's. They were now as traders with the Esquimos and were regarded as inexperienced.

One of the sailors on the Kite was on shore leave, and in a mellow moment exhibited a three-ounce nugget of almost virgin gold, which he said he had dug out of a vein with a pocket knife during the voyage of his vessel. As for trade, why, he declared the vessel had not been engaged in trade at all, but rather in the collection of a lot of quartz, rock, sand and mineral formations.

CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills Are Violent—They Act on Bowels As Pepper Acts in Nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, dizzy, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all "used out."

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

INSOMNIA

Sleep—and Make Money!

SLEEP restores the energy required to master business responsibilities. The man who cannot forget his business when he lays his head on the pillow should heed this warning that his business is mastering him and that it will eventually wreck his future by wrecking his health. Only too often a man suffering from insomnia is persuaded to resort to some dangerous drug and as a result finds himself gripped by a terrible habit.

JAROMA

Nelson's Entire Future Rests on Result of Saylor Battle

By JACK CONWAY.

Boston fistic fans should witness one of the greatest lightweight battles pulled off in these parts in many moons when Battling Nelson and "Young" Saylor clash at the Armory A. A. to-night. Both gladiators are in the best of condition for the fray.

Nelson displayed his skill to local ring devotees two weeks ago when he stopped Billy Nixon of Cambridge, in ten rounds, after a thrilling contest in which the plucky Cambridge boy kept gamely after the "Durable Dane" until he was forced to succumb before Nelson's terrific kidney punches.

Nelson's present ambition is to regain the lightweight crown that he lost to Ad Wolgast at Point Richmond on February 22, 1910. Nelson started his "come back" campaign in Medford, Oregon, the first of August, when he defeated a fighter by the name of Tommy Gaffney in five rounds. The former champion a second "come back" go now with Nixon.

Whether or not Nelson can say it-nuf to undergo the lengthy lightweight limit route-route will be definitely settled for him to-night when the needle-sayler Pepperell real estate king can defeat Saylor, he will be in line for more matches. One of the Indianapolis palaver with the assurance that he can lick anything that wears an ear and refused to throw until tested severely. In the clinches, the latter landed with the same precision and skill as when he was the acknowledged king of the lightweights. His murderous kidney blows landed with great force. Dewight, however, Nelson will be tested again as a battler who is just as great an athlete as he is himself. In Saylor, he will meet an experienced boxer who won't be affected by stage fright and one who is a glutton for punishment. Throughout the West, the Indianapolis boy has made an enviable record, every time in which he has been a principal he has usually won the decision.

During the past year Saylor has crowded with victories over such well known boxers as Jack Britton, Jack Redmond, Tommy Langdon, Joe Rivers, Harry Demuth, Goodman, Sailor Burns, Phil Brock and Marty Haldorn. Saylor's home is in Indianapolis, but he has been training at Indianapolis and was coached with lasting for Nelson's battle.

Saylor has been going some of late and Nelson has proved a most worthy foeman. He is a product of the Hoosier state and a scrappy veteran. He knows how to take punishment and has been known to wade through it to get a victory. Nelson knows how to wade and as a result will be forced to work hard to win.

Saylor will be remembered by the Tremont Street Club for the part work. He has been doing real good work in Indianapolis and Nelson has not worked out in the grandstand and in the ring to-day, preferring to rest.

Jack Sheehan has been engaged to referee the bout. Sheehan has proven himself to be a capable referee and should have no trouble in handling the affair to-night

Reynolds Latest Candidate to Join the Crimson Squad

By TED PARKE.

After an easy time of it yesterday, Harvard's football warriors will probably go through a long scrimmage in the Stadium this afternoon, for after the shooting match against Bates on Saturday last, it is evident that there is no time to be lost in getting the team into proper shape for one of the big battles that will come along soon. With the exception of Gardner the quarterback, who was laid out in the second game last Saturday, when he stretched his knee very badly, the Crimson squad is in fine condition physically, and all that remains is to hammer the team into an able and efficient fighting and scoring machine.

Yesterday afternoon everyone was out on the field for the easy work with the exception of Peirce, the end, who was tied up with laboratory work, and Fechtig, jun., Jr., who is still not in the best of trim. In addition, K. Reynolds, one of the regular backs on the freshman team last Fall, reported for the first time. Reynolds is a big man and very fast for his size. In addition he is no mean punter. There is some doubt yet as to whether he will be played in his old position as a back or make over into an end. Yesterday he was out with the ends for a time and looks good for the position.

Backs Catch Punts.

The backs, on the other hand, had a good dose of catching punts, with Potter and Wigglesworth kicking. The latter seems to have fully recovered from the illness which kept him out of the work for several days last week and is now in good form again. Leslie and "Hank" Corbett, the halfback on the eleven last year, who is in law school at present, had the backs in charge. Corbett came out to aid Coach Houghton for the first time yesterday and will be on hand regularly during the rest of the season. Corbett paid particular attention to the punting of the men, he having an open kicker last year.

Potter is developing into something of a punter himself. Yesterday during the kicking practice he booted away some of the longest punts seen on Soldiers Field for a long while, many of them sailing better than fifty yards and a half. Potter is going to be stood on the forty-yard line and sent a number of punts down to the backfield outfielders with little trouble. If he continues in this sort of work he will be only a man for some of the rival teams to catch shortly.

HARD WORK AT YALE.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 4.—Another hard session of signal practice was the program for the Yale football squad this afternoon. Walter Camp, Jr., and Norman Reid, who were injured, will spend this week helping the coaching. The coaches are trying to develop an open style of play for the team, as such play has never been successfully carried out by the squad. The pouring of Fore of the second team has developed so remarkably that he will be attached to the first squad before the season is over.

TIGER LINE WEAK.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 5.—"Strengthen the line!" was the order issued today to the Tiger football coaches. All the men who were in Saturday's game against Stevens were on the list for scrimmaging this afternoon.

Particular attention is being given to the forward pass, and Hunnicutt's passing is being warmly applauded by the coaches.

Dutch Brown, last year's varsity tackle, has joined the squad, and his plunging strength on the first team and his approach by beat none of his ability.

STIFF PRACTICE FOR NAVY.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 5.—The practice work of the Navy football squad is being gradually stiffened preparatory to the opening of the season's play against Johns Hopkins University on Saturday. Captain Smith Chord, See them in our windows. Bolton, who was out of the game yesterday, said he would be on the field shortly.

WILSON IS WEAK ON FOUL FLIES

To-day's article is the eighteenth published in the Daily AMERICAN, dealing with the players who may figure in the world's series, by R. W. Lardner. One will appear each day.

By R. W. LARDNER.

Pitcher-body to "Chief" Meyers of the New York Giants is Arthur Wilson, McGraw's "change" catcher. In the past, Wilson has worked smoothly with Leon Ames pitching and McGraw may use him in one of the world's series games if Ames requests him to. You know some of these catchers have their pets and they feel that they don't like to have the combination broken up.

If Wilson could master the art of catching foul flies, he would stand much better with Mcgraw. All season he has had trouble with the high ones. Boston fans will remember that his failure to grab one in the ninth inning of a game at the South End Park this year with Ames pitching cost the Giants a victory that looked like a cinch. But Ames has forgiven Arthur that slip and is just as fond of him as ever.

Wilson is still a young man, having just passed his twenty-fourth birthday. He was born in Illinois and got his start by playing with semi-pro clubs around the Chicago towns.

He finally landed a place with Dick Kinsella's Springfield Club in the "Three Eye" League. Dick, who makes a pile of money disposing of his ball players to the men higher up, sold him to the Giants in the Fall of 1908. He joined the New Yorkers in 1909, but wasn't in good health and spent most of the seasons of 1909 and 1910 on the bench and watching the others work.

He was in good shape when he went South with the Giants this Spring, and has caught a good share of games.

Wilson is a right-handed hitter and a fair thrower, although his throws don't approach that of his big mate, "Chief" Meyers. He is one of three Arthurs in New York's ranks, the others being Demaree and Fletcher.

Wilson is a popular athlete, gentlemanly and good natured. He wishes no harm to Meyers, but is praying for a chance to get actively into the big show.

ATTELL IS AWARDED DECISION OVER DALY

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—Monte Attell is wearing a black eye and victory to-day. The optic decoration was presented by Johnny Daly in the last round of their battle here in a desperate effort to win the decision, which was given Attell because of his cleverness in the other rounds. Daly refused to shake hands after the bout, and an extra round interrupted by a referee started, but was stopped by the seconds.

BRAY IS AFTER WATER RECORD

Lieutenant John J. Bray of Corps No. 35, Revere Beach Life Guards, who recently accomplished the feat of swimming to the Boston Light, in close to record time, is now training for a new swim which he expects to make early next Summer.

Mr. Bray intends to make Boston Light and return, a feat that has never been accomplished. If Bray is successful he will go to England and attempt to swim the English Channel.

Lieutenant Bray only made the Light swim after three unsuccessful previous attempts.

On one of his previous attempts to reach the Light, Lieutenant Bray and Captain Welch, of Corps No. 35, Revere Beach Y. L. S. S., who was competing with him, succeeded in passing Bug Light, three to meet their Waterloo in the incoming tide.

Lieutenant Bray is twenty-six years of age and is particularly adapted to water sports, having participated in all the important events of this kind in the last ten years in this vicinity. He is about five feet, six inches tall and in condition weighs about 160 pounds. He was one of the life guards at the AMERICAN'S great swimming match on the Charles River floats, serving with the Life Saving Crew from Revere Beach, or which he is second lieutenant.

Among the different events in which he has competed may be mentioned: Swim from Beachmont to Point of Pines, distance 3½ miles, Labor Day, 1909, winning third prize. The Castle Island to Boston Light, 4½ miles, August 8, the same year. Na tant to Revere and back, a distance of 3 miles, this Summer, and Wood Island to Governor's Island, each Summer for the past five years.

ASKS $5,000 FOR SCHOOL SPORTS

Superintendent of Schools A. B. Bessa has requested the school committee to take charge of the financial end of school athletics and to appropriate $5,000 to cover the cost of equipment, renting of grounds and other expenses. He recommends that the general equipment, such as suits, uniform for by the school committee, but personal equipment be paid for by the boys. He suggests that the master of each high school establish an association in which all pupils of said school shall be entitled to membership, the members to be admitted free to all games. Mr. Brooks says that the present cost of school athletics is about $8,000 but he believes an appropriation of $5,000 would cover the necessary expenses

DAVIS ELECTED AS ASSISTANT MANAGER

ARRANGE WORLD SERIES DATES

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Believing that the Giants will have clinched their title to the National League championship by next Thursday night, the National Commission will meet here Thursday to decide the schedule for the world's championship series.

Garry Herrmann, chairman of the commission, will toss a coin and if Ban Johnson wins the toss the series will open in Philadelphia. If President Lynch of the National wins, the Giants will entertain at the Polo grounds in the opening game. The games will alternate until one New York and Philadelphia each day. The series will start October 13.

B. A. A. WILL HAVE STRONG HOCKEY TEAM

The Boston Hockey Club, which was so successful in hockey last year, has disbanded. As several members of this team are members of the Boston Athletic Association, it is their intention to play under the colors of the B. A. A. this Winter. Many members of the Boston hockey team who are not already members of the B. A. A. have applied for membership.

"US BOYS" IS A REGULAR FEATURE OF THE SUNDAY AMERICAN — DON'T MISS THE ENTERTAINING DOINGS OF THE "MALGUNATED LEGE" IN THE SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Now that the season is drawing to a close, everybody around the neighborhood is busy figuring the chances of the various teams in the race for the pennant. The championship series between the Wasps and the Starfish Giants which is taking place now is not causing as much excitement as it might.

This is all on account of the figuring that the fans have been doing. The dope is that even if the Giants did cop three games from the Wasps the latter team would still retain second place, and the Giants stay just where they are in third place.

As long as it makes no difference which team wins, the fans are not going to come through with a heap or a sack or a bat full of rugs just to sit on a hard fence and see nine lumbags of foolishness such as is taking place down at the grounds. To tell the truth we cannot blame them in the least. Some excitement will have to break loose pretty soon or the league will go on the blink.

As to which team can cop the rag in the song run there is still some doubt. As of the present time the Umpirines, "Boob" Nelson's aggregation, have the first place nailed down tight as far as we can see and the Wild Cats have the last position pegged beyond the shadow of a doubt. The only thing up his sleeve, and as his reputation as a wise guy is pretty strong around my neighborhood we would not even stake a marble that he would not spring something on us which we are not looking for, is the world's series. The second game of the Wasps-Starfish Giants series takes place today. Look in to-morrow's paper.

The Kind of Women Men Admire

By DOROTHY DIX

A YOUNG GIRL, who says she is very small, writes me a fearful letter, in which she complains that men only admire large, tall, majestic women, and that no matter how pretty and sweet a short woman is she is passed over in favor of some lady of the goddess type.

My correspondent feels that her chances of matrimony, and her happiness in life, are blighted by her lack of inches, and she demands to know why this is thus.

Unto which I would respectfully submit, for her consolation, that this isn't thus. It is not true that men, taking them by and large, are enamored of the tall and stately woman, or that they prefer her to the little, roly-poly girl.

Of course, viewed from a standpoint of pure art, "a daughter of the gods, divinely tall and most divinely fair," has the call over her abbreviated sister. The Gibson girl, the Fisher girl, the Christy girl, all of the various girls with whom we are familiar on the backs of magazines and in the Sunday supplements, would undoubtedly be about seven feet high if they were translated into real life. Also, they all have a lean and hungry look which goes all right in a picture, but it is doubtful if any man would care for it in a wife.

In this connection it is interesting to remark that in a previous age, when there was more room to swing a cat than there is now, and a lot more love making doing, the popular ideal of female perfection was not the telephone girl woman of today, but the small cuddlesome woman that was just a good armful.

What Shakespeare Said

The immortal Shakespeare set the proper height of women as just as high as a man's heart. Dickens made his Bella Wilfer, his Ruth Pinch, his Dora, his Pet, all of his sweet adorable women not only short, but plump. All of Scott's heart snatchers were little women. The big women did great, heroic stunts, but it was the little woman that men loved. Thackeray's favorite heroines, even to Becky Sharp, were all small.

These great writers knew the hearts of men than any height, or peachiness of complexion. And in this is the gospel of hope for my short and sawed-off correspondent. My taking thought she cannot add one cubit to her stature, but she can cultivate a charm of manner and personality that would back the poor goddess off the board.

men, and they builded on the fact that while men reverence and worship at the shrine of the tall, majestic women, interpellate times out of a hundred, it is the cute, little, cunning women, with kittenish ways, that can wrap them around her finger.

Of course there are many explanations of this phenomenon. The most obvious is that it flatters a man's vanity for a woman to look up to him physically as well as mentally. A man likes to feel that he is superior to his wife, and it takes one with a much courage to marry a woman that is more intelligent and better educated than he is.

A superior height, like a superior mind, is really a handicap rather than an advantage to a man so far as getting married is concerned. If you will look about you you will see that the girls who have the most beaux, and the women who hold the matrimonial record, are always small.

Of course tall women are admired and small women with a very limited supply of brains.

But married, mostly to very small men, but that is nature's effort to hold the balance steady and keep up the average height of the species, and by the same token and for the same reason the bigger a man is the more the little woman appeals to him.

No Special Preference

It is, however, absurd to claim that men, as a whole, especially admire either the short or the long type of woman, or that her height, unless she is a dwarf, has anything to do with a girl's chances of getting married. Cupid doesn't go about with a yardstick, and whether a man falls in love with a young woman or not depends upon something much less tangible than her size.

Probably every man has a theory, before he meets her, that the divinity who will stir his pulses will look as if she had just stepped down from the top of Mount Olympus, just as every man imagines that he is a worshipper of beauty, and that no woman who wasn't a real, genuine, holdie Venus could ever make his heart go pit-a-pat.

Yet in spite of this alleged devotion to beauty men continue to pick out as wives women who have no standing in the good looker class. In fact it is notorious that brunettes seldom make good marriages, and that white men delight in burning incense before a living picture, when they want to get married they generally go off and pick out some lady in the chromo style of art to take home with them for keeps.

It must be a wonderful pleasure and solace to a woman to be tall, and slender, and queenly. It is appreciated, and able to contemplate the reflection of her figure in every shop window she passes without getting heart failure; but her looks do not seem to make matrimonial love an easy proposition. Men may be drawn to her by her beauty at first, but they soon drift away unless she has some charm more potent than mere good looks with which to hold them.

Sympathy, comprehension, good nature, a willingness to amuse and be amused, all that we comprise in the cryptic phrase "winning ways"—there are a thousand-fold more potent in securing the admiration of men than any height, or peachiness of complexion. And in this is the gospel of hope for my short and sawed-off correspondent. My taking thought she cannot add one cubit to her stature, but she can cultivate a charm of manner and personality that would back the poor goddess off the board.

How Superfluous Hair Is Removed

A certainty that does not enter the pores of the skin (plucking destroys hair roots). Nevertheless, such depilatory must be unscented, as perfumed depilatories are dangerous. Delatone is unscented, because they are powders, (pastes are not reliable, because they are mixed with water, passes through the pores and kills the hair glands).

DELATONE is a liquid that would penetrate the hair, remove it completely in a few minutes and for that reason is the one safe depilatory that can be used. Delatone is sold by druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

What Makes Good Tinware

The difference between cheap tinware and tinware that wears is easy to understand: Cheap ware is stamped by machinery out of coke tin or adulterated tin. The stamping process stretches and strains the tin, and saves labor of cutting and soldering. You get what you pay for—cheap ware and quick rust.

MASON'S TIN WARE

is made for service. The best charcoal tin plate is coated with pure tin (made exclusively for Mason's ware). The dishes are carefully cut, shaped and soldered so that the original materials come to you with all their natural strength.

Insist on getting tinware that will give you your money's worth of service and good looks.

The best department, hardware and housefurnishing stores carry Mason's Tinware.

The American Boy

The Great Mystery Case

I.

IN the course of this article there is something about a potato down cellar.

Let us assume that you are a great detective. You are called upon to solve a mysterious case. What would you do first?

Get all the facts in the case.

And then?

Determine from these facts the conditions and circumstances they point to or suggest.

Stated in other words, you have before you:

1. The mystery.
2. The facts in the case, all they appear at the present moment.

You must discover what led up to these facts. They are of the past.

Now, a boy born to citizenship in the United States (or anywhere else), must be just this kind of detective. He has a greater mystery case at his hands. And he must solve it.

Being an American boy, you want to know what the mystery case is that, as a great detective, you must work on.

It is called "The Meaning of the Present or How to Make Good in the World."

This is really a great case.

If you are the great detective you ought to be, to solve it, your whole lifelong method will be something like this:

During the early years of life you will be getting acquainted with the facts of the mystery, getting your bearings—so to speak. Having become old enough to think for yourself, you will begin to examine your surroundings carefully.

You must say to yourself: I must find out what the world about me is doing, in order that I can begin to work on the great mystery case of Making Good.

This is making a study of the Present. You will begin to notice that people talk and write about things that are not happening now. They constantly refer to times, people and conditions that no longer exist. When you begin to investigate what they are saying, you will find that the people of the world today are thinking their thoughts and governing their conduct very largely from the experience of other men who, like you, American Boy, were born into this world and studied it.

Then you will see the necessity for making a study of the Past.

A day will never come in your attempts to solve this mystery case when you can say, as an ordinary detective often can: "Now I have all the facts, ground and post, and the problem is solved."

You will have to go to every day of your life on your case, constantly studying the Present to know what the world's work is, and, also, constantly studying the Past to know how we came by the thoughts which we have received and which we apply to the Present, and from them govern ourselves about the Future.

II.

Now, this group of facts which lead up to the Present, and which also make the Present, are recorded in books. As you become educated you may form the habit of reading books. If you do, you may be thankful, for you will possess a habit that can be made valuable.

This habit becomes valuable when you use it as one of the aids in your business of solving the Meaning of the Present. Used otherwise, it may be a pleasant habit but not a thoroughly useful one.

Therefore, do not underestimate your power to read. It is the key that will unlock the Past for you, and it is the Past alone that unlocks the Present and lets you in, as the expression says, "on the ground floor."

Books that do this for you are many in number, but they are grouped under few heads, like History, Biography, Education, Science, and the like. It is never necessary to read them all—and, besides, it is impossible. A few books, wisely selected, will let you in to the Meaning of the Past. In one of these articles we will present such a list as a suggestion for those who are determined to solve this mystery case.

But before the American Boy touches a single book, it should be clear to him that the art of Making Good in the case is worth his highest effort.

It should also be clear to him that:

1. The world about him is a great world of Yesterday, and he must study both with great care.

2. The world of To-day is the daughter of Yesterday, and he must study both with great care.

If you do not care to take this point of view or this trouble (and there is a lot of it), you can go down cellar and shut out the light, and tell the Past and the Present that you do not care to bother with them.

In your study of the World of to-day, you will be surprised to find how many people do live down cellar, where, like a potato in the Spring, they throw out a sickly sprout or two, and then are carried out and buried.

If you are going into this mystery case do not live down cellar: be a great detective.

BEG PARDON

"LOOK here, old man," exclaimed the elder sub-editor to the man who mis-managed the manuscripts, "this is a mighty poor story you've passed me."

"Sorry; I can't agree with you," snorted the man who mismanaged the manuscripts; "thought it rather a good yarn myself."

"Did you?" said the elder sub-editor. "Well, listen to this as an example of the writer's style. He says, 'He was pursued to death.' Now, I ask you how could a man be puzzled to death?"

"Well," retorted the guardian of the waste paper basket, "he might be riddled with bullets, you know."

A stated of fact based from a far corner of the room as the stenzette editor upset a pile of postcards.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

A Fight That Is Never Won.

THE greatest misfortune that can befall a woman is to reach the age of wrinkles and have time to think about them. It is such a misfortune a woman should pray: "Lord, grant when the crow's feet show that I will be so occupied using my feet in the service of others I won't have time to notice them."

Mrs. Lysander John Appleton has the wrinkles, which is annoying, and also the leisure, which makes of the wrinkles a tragedy. Her struggles to become young again are as pitiful as those a life-loving man makes on his deathbed to get well. And as futile.

She recently read that if a woman took an hour's rest every afternoon, she would within a few weeks be as young and handsome as she ever was, and Mrs. Lysander John decided to try it. She flew from one task to another to get her work done, and at 2 o'clock, tired and breathless, went to her room to receive her first instalment of youth and beauty.

She darkened the room, lay on her bed, and filled her mind with Beautiful Thoughts! Being a woman this was easy to do, but if it had been Lysander John it would have been impossible. Just as her mind was teeming with Beautiful Thoughts, a dark suspicion crossed her brain that something was lacking. She thought and thought and thought, and at last she remembered:

The pose! The book had given the pose for perfect relaxation, and she couldn't remember if her feet were to be higher than her head, if she were to lie on her face, or if she were to cross her fingers. There was only one thing to do: She must find the book. And this explains why she turned the house upside down, and was still looking at three, still turning things upside down at four, and still rummaging at five, and why Lysander John found a cold stove and a warm wife when he came home for dinner at six. It also explains why the Appleton home is always upset, and why Mrs. Appleton is not any younger. She hasn't yet found the book!

"I hate," said Mrs. Appleton, who is an honest woman, "that when I set on my rouge, powder, ink sausage puffs and an expression of tranquility, I look as young as thirty-five, but when I run to free lo the night without any previous preparation I look at least sixty. I have also found that the only part of these beauty directions of which a man approves are the Beautiful Thoughts. They do not cost a dollar a bottle."

WHAT THE WIRE REVEALED

A man who had to leave on a journey before the end of a case began against him by a neighbor gave orders to his lawyer to let him know the result by telegraph. After several days he got the following telegram:

"Right has triumphed."

He at once telegraphed back:

"Appeal immediately."

We Have Prepared for the Greatest Season's Business in Our History

Our Two Immense Buildings Are Filled With the Most Carefully Selected Stocks of New Fall and Winter Merchandise That We Have Ever Shown.

The vast volume of business transacted here in September, which was the greatest by far we have ever known, together with the gratifying interest shown in our initial displays by so many thousands of patrons, leads us to believe that our extensive preparations for the fall and winter season have been wisely made.

This House is admittedly New England's Foremost Store by a wide margin and recognized everywhere as one of the few truly Great Stores of the World. Hence a shopping trip to Boston is incomplete unless it includes a visit to this GREAT INSTITUTION.

Desperate Desmond

High up in the fastness of the Himalayas, Claude and Rosamond are taking their last look at Desperate Desmond, in a sedan chair he is bound helplessly, when the sun melts the ice a little he will fall into the ravine to his lonely death.

A large Himalayan bear, long anxious to cross from the side of the cliff to the other, sees with glee the sedan chair over the chasm, and starts to climb over. Desmond sees a new danger, and like most villains, prefers a distant doom to one close at hand.

The ice, already melting under the rays of the sun, cannot stand the additional weight of the bear, and the end pieces begin to break off. To the casual observer it would seem as if the scoundrel would be eaten by the bear or dashed to pieces.

However, the villain, with his usual cunning, has another scheme in mind—he sees about him—think that as the two pairs of the chair, and save his unworthy life at the villain hopes soon to reach the warmer plains.

Just as the pinnacles of ice come together, and the chair bearing the worthless Desmond slides to safety the bear, with a loud growling sound, goes scampering in a downward direction. Its ugly head, as the chair is carried over the ravine, is seen as the pinnacles of ice come together, and the chair bearing the worthless Desmond slides to safety the bear, with a loud growling sound, goes scampering in a downward direction. Its ugly head, as the chair is carried over the ravine, is seen as the pinnacles of ice come together, and the chair bearing the worthless Desmond slides to safety the bear, with a loud growling sound, goes scampering in a downward direction. Its ugly head, as the chair is carried over the ravine, is seen as the villain hopes soon to reach the warmer plains.

"I'm the boy!" cries Desperate Desmond, "and I'll give the lovers an awful bump." As his heavy sedan chair shoots down the mountain it appears certain to lift or wound Claude and Rosamond. Will it? See to-morrow's paper.

Degrading the Stage

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

(Copyright, 1911, American-Journal Examiner.)

A CHILD of eleven years of age, a little girl with a beautiful face and a childish love of excitement and admiration, was permitted to run wild by a senseless and silly mother who must have been born and reared without any ideals of decency.

This child was a mother at thirteen and now, at seventeen, is known to the whole world as the unfortunate assassin of the man who murdered his wife a few weeks ago; and who is to go to the electric chair in November.

This girl was taken to New York with the idea of being exploited upon the stage by some base manager; but at the last moment this shameful project was abandoned.

Two young women, older in years, if not in shame, than the poor child, were shown on a New York stage for several weeks during the summer; girls without talent or gifts of any sort to make them entitled for a stage career, and engaged by a New York manager solely as curiosities, because they had tried to shoot a depraved old millionaire.

Another Exhibition

Now we have another exhibition in New York; and this time it is of a French girl who is unknown to fame as an actress or dancer; but who has achieved notoriety through a pose-dress little nearly one as the time the King of Portugal was.

The poor little King, soon to be placed beside any of our American boys who are just leaving high school, was in a sorry figure. The poor little actress, were she placed beside thousands of our lovely self-supporting girls in American shops and factories, would never be given a second glance.

Yet the intimation of this week that by far the girl has entered her to become a world celebrity, and to dictate terms to American managers of prominent theatres.

But for the assistance of the little exKing, this French girl would never have been heard of in America.

She has less talent than hundreds of girls who are singing and dancing in the chorus of large productions; and she has not beauty enough to recall her to the front.

Yet here she is, earning a large salary, and assuming the airs of a prima donna, a Bernhardt or a Bernhardt.

And here is the American public all agape to see her.

It is argued that she is no more immoral in her life than many great actresses and prima donnas have been and are.

It is proved that one great disagreeable the private and public life of an artist.

But the point of this discussion is that the young woman who shot at the millionaire, and the young woman from France, are not artists

Out of Curiosity

They are not engaged by managers because of their talents. They are engaged simply because they have become notorious. When one hears a great voice, and realizes what industry and patience and self denial the cultivation of this voice has entailed, when one hears a great actress and is carried away by her genius, when one sees a glorious exhibition of the art of legitimate, wherein all the other arts seem to mingle—music, poetry, sculpture—one does not stop to ask about the private life of the performer. We all carry away with us something that is great and beautiful and uplifting from every such exhibition of art.

But when we go out of mere curiosity to stare at a woman who has done nothing to distinguish herself in the world of art, merely because of some weak or immoral or criminal action, then we are degrading the stage, degrading the profession of the artist, and degrading ourselves.

And we ought to be ashamed of ourselves and our country.

Extravagance

Till managers had returned after an absence of twenty years.

"Dod," he joyously exclaimed, "I have come back with money to burn, and I am going to spend it in chunks right here, the first thing to be done is to lift that mortgage from the farm."

"You let that mortgage alone!" suddenly ordered the father. "If I didn't make something to make me bump myself I couldn't sleep at night."

"Then I'll rebuild this old, ramshackle place," went on the son, enthusiastically. "Why, I'll make it the finest residence in the country."

"Don't you touch a stick of this homestead, boy!" and the old man scowled. "It was good enough for my dad, and it's good enough for me."

"But look here, dad; I'm rich and I want to do something handsome for you. Let me put a thousand dollars' worth of livestock on the farm, won't you?"

"Tarnashun, no! It's all I kin do now to milk five cows and look after the chickens. Don't you go wastin' things here."

"But can't I do something for you, dad?"

"Natain, son."

"Can't I build a new barn?"

"That barn's all right."

"But—but—"

"Well, boy, I reckon in the old home of twelve hound and determined to spend your wealth, I s'pose I'll have to give in. Guess you'd better go away from us so long."

"Good, dad! What shall I do?"

"First thing you go to town you adjust being me a calabash pipe."

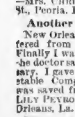
SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies have done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctors said I had tumors, and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. Your Liver Pills have no equal as a cathartic. Any one wishing proof of what your medicines have done for me can get it from any druggist or by writing to me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Another Operation Avoided.

New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctors said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PEYROUX, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments

JOHN MARTINDALE volunteers for five years' missionary service in fever-stricken Cambula and thereby sacrifices, temporarily, the fulfilment of his love for Clemency Westgarth. During his absence, Clemency's father, Sir Jasper Westgarth, dies. Soon after, Clemency's close friend, declares he was intended for a pirate, not a parson, and warns him against the dire possibilities of Cambula. He bids good-by to his sweetheart and goes to meet Mrs. Katherine Saxe, wife of the head of the missionary station in Cambula, whom he is going to take out to her husband. He arrives in town only to find a smallpox epidemic in full swing. Clemency, in a restaurant, while re-reading a letter, he looks up to meet a woman's eyes. She speaks to him and it turns out she is Mrs. Saxe. He recognises her as a girl he had known as Kitty Lomax, who, during her marriage, saved his life when he was dying of fever.

Kitty tries to dissuade him from going to Cambula, but he will have none of her arguments. He arrives in West Africa with Kitty and the latter's husband comes down to the coast to meet her, a day's journey from Cambula itself. The old friendship of Kitty and Martindale has been largely re-established on long journeys to the West Africa.

The three start on the journey inland to Cambula. While camping on route Martindale awakes to find a woman's hand rolling his name. The cry has come from Saxe's tent. Rushing in, Martindale finds that Saxe is drunk and has stabbed Kitty in the shoulder. Martindale decides to start for to the dark and Martindale at once "wounded" himself in the shoulder. Two of the men then he sees Saxe, with a fiendish grin, stabbing Kitty in the breast. He fires and Saxe falls.

After the shot Martindale hears something crashing away, showing that there is an unfriendly witness to the occurrence. He concludes that one of the native boys must have been walking in his sleep.

Martindale strikes a match and finds that Saxe is dead. He decides not to tell for Martindale and implores him not to do so. Before the light of the shot Martin declares that nobody would believe it, and that, moreover, Saxe, before completing, Martindale, although torn by conscience, at the thought of Clemency, decides to aid him at home, promises and keeps Kitty in the army. Kitty lies, and persuades the natives to bury her husband's body.

They resume their journey, during which he was shot. While the digging going on Martindale reveals Saxe's body is buried away from his native land, which he had often expressed. The grave is made ready and the body carried to its Martindale reads

EXPECT SPEED AT FAIRMOUNT

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Fairmount Park races at Philadelphia next Saturday, the only big road event to be held in the East this year, should be productive of some fast work, even though the 6.2 is somewhat limited in class. There has not this year been the interest in Philadelphia circles that is necessary for the thorough success of a big road race, and as a result there has perhaps been less general interest in the game in the state since the entry list.

Still there are enough first class entries to insure a good, fast, hard-fought race, one that will surely be worth while witnessing. It is in this race that Henry Grant will drive the Lozier in competition. All his road races have been at the wheel of the Alco. Grant on his retired span to render a good account of himself, and together with a partner in Mulford, should be able to keep the Lozier well to the fore.

Len Zeigle and Donald Herr will both drive Nationals, while Harry Endicott will handle a Case, and Gil Anderson a Stutz.

The return of E. P. Weber to the New England motor industry will be much expected for since he became identified with The United States Motor Company he has generally believed that his return to this city was a question of a short time. Mr. Weber is well qualified to discharge the duties of his new position as New England wholesale manager of the Stoddard-Dayton, he having had extensive experience throughout the territory and being particularly keen and alert.

In promoting Mr. Lucas to the managership of the Detroit department the company pays a well-merited tribute to Mr. Lucas who has for years been identified with the Stoddard product, knowing its merits and demerits from coast to coast, New England to the other, and who has always been active in advancing its interests. The governing company could not possibly have made more fitting appointments than these.

'THE GAMBLERS' SURE WINNERS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

Pity the poor banker who has dipped into righteous finger into a fraudulent pie, and who is about to enter upon a long term to prison for his error—don't scorn his sweep with him in his misfortune. For it is all that Charles Klein asks of you in "The Gamblers," which scored a tremendous, straight-from-the-shoulder success at the Majestic last evening.

Mr. Klein, who, by the way, was present to enjoy the festivities and say a few language words in a friendly audience, aspect in his play the popular notion that men of finance who break laws should go to jail. That the end justifies the means is a poor excuse for the prosecuting attorney—and was so regarded in the case of Hyams and his stealing bankers and their families. By the middle of the second act of this melodrama of finance you were rooting hard for the bank wreckers, and thanking awful thought of the unsympathetic prosecuting attorney. The sympathetic touch established was subsequently by the novel men who represented that side of the case. They presented the wholesome-souled citizens, who, tried with the latest "get-rich-quick" scheme, thing if they could get away with the goods.

Trapped by Virtuous Attorney.

They couldn't, poor souls, for Mr. Klein's virtuous attorney had trapped them. Consequently the Emerson line of banks were closed, the banking disaster, with young Mr. Emerson elected to the governorship, Wilbur Emerson elected to Congress, Wilbur was put on a easy task, yet he performed agreeably at all times. It was a pleasure to observe Miss Cowl and the physical beauty offered no obstacle to brilliant acting.

Plymouth.

Like a moan of misery from the sea was the note struck last night at the Ply. mouth Theatre and the players in the little one-act play, "Riders of the Sea," by M. J. Synge.

It was the story of a mother on the west coast of Ireland who had given up all her sons but one to the cruel sea—and then that one looks to be lost, with the mother never knowing if he was alive or dead. And then, as easy task, yet the sacrifice seemed agreeably at all times. It was a pleasure to observe Miss Cowl that physical beauty offered no obstacle to brilliant acting.

Jane Cowl and Charles Stevenson in "The Gamblers" at the Majestic.

A less seasoned player would never have dared it.

Miss Cowl made it plain early in the evening that she did not have to rely upon her good looks to win favor with Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Calder. Here was a woman who could act, and act well. Her work was consistent.

Grand Opera House.

"The Angel and the Ox," a four-act comedy drama, by John A. Preston, which for exceeds anything of its kind that has been brought to this city before, is playing to packed houses every afternoon and evening this week at the Grand Opera House. The scenes are laid in Oklahoma and the characters are a cowboy, a rancher's wife, "The Ox," and his winning daughter, "The Angel," throughout the tender love story.

The big feature of the play is the great race between two bronchos, on parallel tracks, for a full quarter of a mile, a novel suitor for "The Angels" hand which ends in the recovery of the mortgage to pay off the mortgage on the ranch which the half-breed, "The Ox," has on his wife.

Mabel Starr is making a big hit as the "Angel" and Edward Emery as the "Ox" brings down the house at every speech entrusted to him. The difficult role of "The Ox" was none too easily handled by him all of which he did to perfection. The others in the cast are up to the high order of the applause.

Globe.

Billy B. Da—vis, and the Beaumont sister, Rose and Nellie, and an agile chorus, in "A Lucky Hoodoo" is a vaudeville offering that is worth the price of admission. It is a musical comedy of the kind that you can read between the acts, you are told that the play at the Globe this week is entertaining, and you are told right. It started it when he wandered upon the stage in a shower of rain, in a rubber coat and sou'wester, with a suit case in his hand and remarked, "Ace or two flicks that I'm the only man on the bill with a property man, and the first act comes and the scenes in a theatre.

The chorus were the real quick change artists. They were Oklahoma cowboys in a cross between the ordinary bathing suit and the garb of a cowboy, before singing and slaying "La, la, la." A minute later they were in the garb of Sioux Squawtresses. Indians. Then Pierrettes. Next, show girls in full regalia. After that, a costume that might have been anything, and then, of course, Scotch girls.

National.

La Blanca and Wanda, in a high-class dancing melange, are the headliners in a vaudeville which is attracting large audiences to the National Theatre. La Blanca comes from the Follies Bergere, and while Wanda is somewhat overshadowed by her more accomplished and brunette associate, she is a most excellent dancer and a most excellent partner in the pleasing act. Wanda, by the culture, but opposite, possessed of tremendous strength and lightness of foot. The young man and a dress suit made up of fine cloth and a dress suit made up of fine cloth and the supernatural. He gave the fight to the eye as well as the ear.

Altogether a pleasing act, and a clever company presented.

Austin & Stone's.

Not for many months has a better attraction been shown at Austin & Stone's than Hamilton Gunnis' new musical extravaganzing. In the theatre the audience simply revelled in the delightful comedy of The Meeting Girl.

Waldron's Casino.

Among the biggest figures in burlesque is Dave Marion, whose clever work in the ways leaders in smart modern extravaganza, and who is the star of the Waldron Casino Theatre yesterday with his Dancing Dudines, and also a clever singing comedy, called "Stageland."

Orpheum Theatre.

The usual entertainment at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday contained many features, the principal one being the sales-talking talents were Hall and Stafford, in "A Thirsty Awakening," the Mirmina band of Italian musicians, Bailey and Daly, two colored entertainers, Rooney, the contortionist, and a dozen other acts of high strength. There were also new motion picture films.

Howard Athenaeum.

Bob Fitzsimmons was the centre of attraction at the Old Howard yesterday. He was the athletic feature of the bill and appeared between Miss Alleged and Mr. Mosher's Americans. The former thumbnail had a clever sketch called "Her Birthright," which was written for him by Jack London. He was assisted by Magda Dahl, a smart-looking young woman.

South End Theatre.

In the new bill at the South End Theatre yesterday was discovered Alfred the great, or, educated ape that looked and acted like a genuine human being. Other vaudeville novelties and a new picture film, "The Fatal Affair," with a lecture by Professor Mitchell, completed the program.

Hub Theatre.

Many new vaudeville features and a long list of motion pictures made up the program at the Hub Theatre yesterday.

Scenic Temple.

The new bill at the Scenic Temple contained several novelties that were new to Boston, and an attractive list of motion pictures.

Next Week's Plays.

Veleska Suratt in "The Red Rose" will return to Boston next week and play at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Plays That Hold Over.

The second week of the Winter Garden show at the Shubert Theatre began last evening, and is the biggest musical entertainment of the year.

"The Girl and the Wizard" continues its splendid prosperity at the Colonial Theatre. Raymond Hitchcock is delightfully funny in "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" has entered upon its second week at the Park Theatre. It is playing to capacity business.

"Excuse Me" more than holds its own at the Tremont Theatre, where crowded houses are making the play one of the season's successes.

Louis Mann began his second and final week at the Hollis last evening in "Elevating a Husband." The play is splendidly suited to Mr. Mann.

In age doesn't keep "The Round Up" from filling the Boston Theatre at nearly every performance. It is real melodrama.

Mosher as the New York reporters. Miss Beverly West pleased her audience in the impersonation of Mary Jane Smith, a footlight favorite, while Miss Minnie Shell-hardt was her mother, old enough to be. Miss Mabel Colcord in the part of Mrs. Smith was excellent.

Preston, which for exceeds anything of its kind that has been brought to this city before, is playing to packed houses every afternoon and evening this week at the Grand Opera House. The scenes are laid in Oklahoma and the characters are a cowboy, a rancher's wife, "The Ox," and his winning daughter, "The Angel," throughout the tender love story.

The big feature of the play is the great race between two bronchos, on parallel tracks, for a full quarter of a mile, a novel suitor for "The Angels" hand which ends in the recovery of the mortgage to pay off the mortgage on the ranch which the half-breed, "The Ox," has on his wife.

Mabel Starr is making a big hit as the "Angel" and Edward Emery as the "Ox" brings down the house at every speech entrusted to him. The difficult role of "The Ox" was none too easily handled by him all of which he did to perfection. The others in the cast are up to the high order of the applause.

Globe.

Billy B. Da—vis, and the Beaumont sister, Rose and Nellie, and an agile chorus, in "A Lucky Hoodoo" is a vaudeville offering that is worth the price of admission. It is a musical comedy of the kind that you can read between the acts, you are told that the play at the Globe this week is entertaining, and you are told right. It started it when he wandered upon the stage in a shower of rain, in a rubber coat and sou'wester, with a suit case in his hand and remarked, "Ace or two flicks that I'm the only man on the bill with a property man, and the first act comes and the scenes in a theatre.

The chorus were the real quick change artists. They were Oklahoma cowboys in a cross between the ordinary bathing suit and the garb of a cowboy, before singing and slaying "La, la, la." A minute later they were in the garb of Sioux Squawtresses. Indians. Then Pierrettes. Next, show girls in full regalia. After that, a costume that might have been anything, and then, of course, Scotch girls.

National.

La Blanca and Wanda, in a high-class dancing melange, are the headliners in a vaudeville which is attracting large audiences to the National Theatre. La Blanca comes from the Follies Bergere, and while Wanda is somewhat overshadowed by her more accomplished and brunette associate, she is a most excellent dancer and a most excellent partner in the pleasing act. Wanda, by the culture, but opposite, possessed of tremendous strength and lightness of foot. The young man and a dress suit made up of fine cloth and a dress suit made up of fine cloth and the supernatural. He gave the fight to the eye as well as the ear.

Altogether a pleasing act, and a clever company presented.

Austin & Stone's.

Not for many months has a better attraction been shown at Austin & Stone's than Hamilton Gunnis' new musical extravaganzing. In the theatre the audience simply revelled in the delightful comedy of The Meeting Girl.

Waldron's Casino.

Among the biggest figures in burlesque is Dave Marion, whose clever work in the ways leaders in smart modern extravaganza, and who is the star of the Waldron Casino Theatre yesterday with his Dancing Dudines, and also a clever singing comedy, called "Stageland."

Orpheum Theatre.

The usual entertainment at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday contained many features, the principal one being the sales-talking talents were Hall and Stafford, in "A Thirsty Awakening," the Mirmina band of Italian musicians, Bailey and Daly, two colored entertainers, Rooney, the contortionist, and a dozen other acts of high strength. There were also new motion picture films.

Howard Athenaeum.

Bob Fitzsimmons was the centre of attraction at the Old Howard yesterday. He was the athletic feature of the bill and appeared between Miss Alleged and Mr. Mosher's Americans. The former thumbnail had a clever sketch called "Her Birthright," which was written for him by Jack London. He was assisted by Magda Dahl, a smart-looking young woman.

South End Theatre.

In the new bill at the South End Theatre yesterday was discovered Alfred the great, or, educated ape that looked and acted like a genuine human being. Other vaudeville novelties and a new picture film, "The Fatal Affair," with a lecture by Professor Mitchell, completed the program.

Hub Theatre.

Many new vaudeville features and a long list of motion pictures made up the program at the Hub Theatre yesterday.

Scenic Temple.

The new bill at the Scenic Temple contained several novelties that were new to Boston, and an attractive list of motion pictures.

Next Week's Plays.

Veleska Suratt in "The Red Rose" will return to Boston next week and play at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Plays That Hold Over.

The second week of the Winter Garden show at the Shubert Theatre began last evening, and is the biggest musical entertainment of the year.

"The Girl and the Wizard" continues its splendid prosperity at the Colonial Theatre. Raymond Hitchcock is delightfully funny in "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" has entered upon its second week at the Park Theatre. It is playing to capacity business.

"Excuse Me" more than holds its own at the Tremont Theatre, where crowded houses are making the play one of the season's successes.

Louis Mann began his second and final week at the Hollis last evening in "Elevating a Husband." The play is splendidly suited to Mr. Mann.

In age doesn't keep "The Round Up" from filling the Boston Theatre at nearly every performance. It is real melodrama.

STOCK PRICES UP IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The railroad group led in an upturn of the stock market following the opening today, when general gains were scored. New York Central was one of the strongest issues on the strength of the report of August earnings and reports that it would easily earn its dividend this year. This stock advanced ¾ in the first ten minutes of trading. A gain of ½ was scored in Reading and fractional advances were noted in Union Pacific, St. Paul and Southern Railway preferred.

Canadian Pacific received strong support early in London, with the result that it opened 1% higher here. The demand for United States Rubber continued, a gain of 1% being made in the stock. The Interborough-Metropolitan traction shares were in demand. A strong tone was shown at the outset in nearly all the stocks in which there is a speculative interest.

The copper group was firm, Amalgamated opening ¼ higher and American Smelting ¾ up.

Southern Pacific made a gain of ¼. The entire situation over the Harriman system seemed to lack all the elements of excitement, the market was dull.

Americans in London were firm and there was good buying of Canadian Pacific.

THRONG AT NEW ENGLAND SHOW

Governor Foss, Mayor Fitzgerald and F. Faithful Begg of the London Stock Exchange and Chamber of Commerce, were among the guests of the dinner which marked the formal opening of the New England Industrial and Educational Exposition, under the auspices of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in Mechanics Building.

Chairman Walter Lowner of the Chamber of Commerce Trade Extension Committee, which has charge of the exposition, for the chamber, led the speaking and introduced John C. Cobb, who acted as chairman. Mr. Begg, fresh from Canada, paid a tribute to the enterprise of New Englanders, as shown by the remarkable display at the Exposition. He said these states held one product which Canada needed and wanted more than any one thing else—our young men. He spoke also of the importance of education treaties and suggestions, visits to the Art Museum and the Public Library. The arrangements are in charge of the ladies' committee. In the evening those of the party who care to do so will attend the theatre.

The program for Wednesday includes a business meeting of the stockholders at 9 a. m., and another meeting for the ladies, who will board special cars for the Lynnway Auto Racing Course. The stockholders will go to the club for luncheon after the morning session, which adjourned, leaving on special cars at 12.15, the afternoon is spent on the Midway.

Beginning at 2:30, the afternoon will be spent in outdoor sports and entertainments, and at 6:30 there will be an old-fashioned New England clam dinner. At 8:30 there will be a special fireworks display, followed by a concert by illuminated pieces, on the beach. Afterwards there will be a dance at the exhibition hall. The feature of the afternoon will be the old-fashioned log sawing contest.

Thursday morning there will be a general meeting of the stockholders, to elect a motor trip for the ladies through the historic and rural towns of Boston. Returning, the entire party will gather at the Lynnway for the Labor Day Company for luncheon. After luncheon the stockholders will inspect the laboratory. Later they will go on special cars to inspect the new candy factory and to the Hood, leaving there at 4:30 for their hotels.

UNITED DRUG CO. DELEGATES HERE

Two thousand stockholders of the United Drug Company of Boston gathered here today from all parts of the United States to attend the ninth annual convention of the company. Their sessions will last till Thursday night, closing with a banquet at the Arena, where the sessions are to be held.

The stockholders will each wear as a mark of identification an armband bearing a device representing the name of the town or city from which they come. Most of them bring their wives and families along for the three days' stay.

The convention opens this morning with a formal session at the Arena, when stockholders are received and welcomed. Mayor Fitzgerald gives an address of welcome. Then comes the address and annual report of President Louis K. Liggett.

This afternoon the ladies of the party will assemble at the Arena. Parties will be made up for shopping expeditions, visits to the Art Museum and the Public Library. The afternoon sessions are in charge of the ladies' committee. In the evening those of the party who care to do so will attend the theatre.

THE CREW CANDIDATES START WORK TO-DAY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—Yale's general rowing season was ushered in the last night by Captain Ronayn in the university gymnasium. Work for the fall was discussed and the candidates were asked to report for daily practice as late as the weather permits. A squad of about twelve has been at work, largely in pair oars, for two weeks. It is expected that forty more will begin practise to-day. An unusually elaborate fall regatta will be held next month.

Right-our shell rowing will be generally begun this week. The squad will be coached by the two men in the varsity coach, and by Rob Cook, who will remain here practically all the season getting in shape for the Cook cup race, which is rowing tangled. At last night's meeting speeches were made by Mr. Cook and Captain Stevenson of the record-breaking crew.

TAKE SCHLEY'S BODY TO WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The body of Rear Admiral Schley will be taken to Washington, where services will be held at his late residence in Georgetown. The funeral will be in Arlington Cemetery. President Taft has telegraphed to Mrs. Winfield Scott Schley: "I am very sorry to hear of the death of your husband, who had honored me for years with his friendship. He was a brave commander, he served his country faithfully and well and is entitled to lasting honor. I join in your great personal sympathy in your great sorrow."

FOOD FAIR AND BAZAAR.

A food fair and bazaar for next Wednesday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings is announced by the ladies of the Park and Dover Congregational Church in Wollaston Park. Dinner will be served on the first occasion, with the usual booths stocked with attractive articles for sale. Supper only will be served. The proceeds are to go to the new church building.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON OCTOBER 3, 1911

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, OCTOBER 3, 1911

Largest Circulation in New England, DAILY and SUNDAY.

The "silent watches of the night" were broken at 9 o'clock last evening in a ward room of the City Hospital, when the sobbing kneelers about the bedside of Maurice Murphy saw the pallor of the last sleep creep over his manly features as his true and honorable soul took its flight from earth to its home beyond the stars.

A brave fight for life was at that moment ended. It had lasted for weeks, and up to the very end the doctors had hope. But inexorable Death claimed its own, to the sorrow of all who knew him, whose turn it was to answer the call.

The grief that has come to the home he founded with such bright hopes only two years ago is too sacred for intrusion. But it is not confined to the fireside of the young man who has passed. It permeates the office of this newspaper, where all who worked with him are mindful to-day of a sense of personal bereavement.

Maurice Murphy was one of the ablest members of the AMERICAN staff, as he was one of the most respected and trusted men who ever labored in its service. His newspaper colleagues on all the papers of Boston, the men who worked with him in the press gallery of the State House, in the reporters' room at City Hall, the public officials of Boston, the leaders of the political parties with whom he came in constant and intimate intercourse, will read the news of his death this morning with tear-dimmed eyes, as the types tell them they have lost a faithful and generous-hearted friend and fellow worker.

Those who knew Maurice Murphy best will join with fervor in the hopeful prayer that his honest soul may have an eternity of happy rest by those shores where one day his loved ones will join him forever.

Shall Women Work in Foundries in Massachusetts?

Will Any Candidate for Office in This Commonwealth Dare to Say "Yes"?

A PLEDGE FOR CANDIDATES

Do you believe that women should work in Massachusetts foundries? If you do not, cut out this pledge, hand it to the next candidate who asks you for his vote, or to any candidate whom you know, and ask him to fill it out and mail it to the AMERICAN.

WILL YOU PROMISE, IF ELECTED, TO WORK AND VOTE FOR A LAW PROHIBITING THE EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN AND GIRLS IN CORE ROOMS AND FOUNDRIES, AND A LAW TO CREATE A DEPARTMENT OF LABOR FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF ALL LABOR LAWS?

I promise to vote Yes . . . . . No

Name . . . . . .

Address . . . . . .

Candidate for . . . . . .

It is the duty of every member of every woman's club, labor union, church or other organization in Massachusetts who has any regard for the public weal, to see that before election day every candidate in this State pledges himself to work for the enactment by the Legislature of a law prohibiting the employment in any iron foundry in this Commonwealth of any woman coremaker.

The situation in iron foundries which was exposed in the Sunday AMERICAN caused a stir in Massachusetts not equalled since a "broadcloth mob" attacked William Lloyd Garrison for daring to "hurt the trade of Boston" by publishing in his newspaper demands that slavery of the African should be abolished in the United States.

When the agitation for the abolition of the enslavement of the blacks was in progress, there were many mass meetings held in Faneuil Hall to express the sentiment of Massachusetts. Not since that agitation has there been another meeting in the Cradle of Liberty like that of Saturday night.

At that meeting the whole question was put as it should be put. It was put to the men who are seeking election to State offices, and who will constitute the legislative and administrative forces for Massachusetts in 1912.

The resolutions adopted at that meeting speak for all the people in this Commonwealth who are opposed to White Slavery and the degradation of womanhood by the greed of industrialism.

The resolutions ought to be ratified by every candidate for a State office. Any candidate who will not pledge himself to work and vote for a law prohibiting the employment of women and girls in foundry core rooms ought to be defeated at the polls, regardless of party or any other consideration.

In their whitewash report to the chief of State police, factory inspectors say that the millionaire proprietors are not breaking any law by employing women at work for which they are unfitted by sex and strength, and which exhausts them physically and brutalizes them mentally.

If foundry proprietors are degrading womanhood legally in 1911, it is the duty of the 1912 Legislature to see that any such proceeding for profit is made unlawful.

Let the people of this State take the referendum into their own hands now, and MAKE EVERY CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE DECLARE HIMSELF without delay.

WELL, WHAT ELSE CAN I DO FOR YOU? WHY NOT HAVE YOUR HEAD SHINED? I CAN PUT A NICE POLISH ON IT IF YOU WISH, SIR!
YES! GO AHEAD! PUT A GOOD SHINE ON IT! POLISH IT UP!
BUT I'M IN A HURRY... WHAT IS THAT YOU ARE DOING NOW?
I'M PLANING OFF THE BUMPS AND ROUGH SPOTS, SIR!
I'VE GOT TO LOOK AT A FEW ACTS THIS MORNING UP AT THE THEATRE.—WHAT IS THAT?
THIS IS AN EMERY WHEEL! ARE YOU IN THE THEATRICAL BUSINESS, SIR?
YES, MANAGER! MANAGE ALL THE BIG ACTS! LOOKIN FOR NEW STUFF THOUGH.—WHAT IS THAT YOU ARE DOING NOW?
THIS IS SAND PAPER TO GET A SMOOTH SURFACE, SIR! I'D LIKE TO GET A PASS
COME AROUND ANY TIME I'LL FIX YOU UP.—WHAT IS THAT STUFF?
THIS? WHY THIS IS PUMICE STONE! YES, THERE'S A BARBER WHO USED TO WORK FOR ME PLAYING UP HERE—HAMLET I THINK IS THE NAME OF THE PLAY—
OH, YES, AS SOON AS I GIVE IT A GOOD BRUSHING WITH THESE WIRE BRISTLES, I'LL POLISH IT UP WITH THE CHAMOIS, I'LL DO A GOOD JOB, SIR!
SAY GIVE MY HEAD A GOOD POLISH WILL YOU?
HOW IS IT? HOW DOES IT LOOK?. HAVE YOU A GOOD SHINE THAT WILL LAST?
SHINES LIKE A DIAMOND, SIR!
WELL SIR! I GUESS I AM THROUGH WITH YOU! HA! DID YOU HAVE A GOOD NAP SIR?
HUH! YES! I WAS ASLEEP WASN'T I? YES, I FEEL BETTER NOW!

I AND ME TRUSTY BLADE—
A SHOW OF THIS KIND, WATSO, IS A SORT OF INTELLECTUAL MORPHINE, AFTER HAVING BEEN RESTORING THE CROWN JEWELS TO THE KING OF HESSEN-DARMSTADT.
WILL DEFEND THE KINGDOM!
A CABBAGE IS HARDLY THE WEAPON OF AN ASSASSIN, WATSO!
SOMEONE TRYING TO KILL ME!
LOOK, WATSO,—YOUR ASSASSIN'S AIM WAS BETTER THIS TIME!
AND YOUR ASSASSIN'S HEART IS EVIDENTLY IN HIS WORK, WATSO,—STRIKE 2!
$5000. REWARD FOR THE CAPTURE OF THE MISCREANT WHO PERPETRATED THIS OUTRAGE!
IT IS AMUSING, WATSO, TO OBSERVE WHAT MANIFESTATIONS OF PROFESSIONAL JEALOUSY ARE DISPLAYED BY OUR OLD FRIEND—HAMFATTO!
STAGE MONEY!
THAT FIRST CABBAGE DIDN'T AMUSE ME SO MUCH AS THE OTHERS!

Savings Bank Insurance in Massachusetts

By LOUIS D. BRANDEIS

From address delivered by Mr. Louis D. Brandeis on Sunday in Pittsfield.

SAVINGS Bank Life Insurance is a labor-saving and money-saving device to enable the wage earner to secure one of the necessaries of life at the lowest possible cost. Opportunity is open to all every day, but effort must follow the opportunity. It has been estimated that 75 per cent. of the misery in human life is the result of failure to provide for the contingencies of life—sickness, accident, premature death, superannuation and unemployment.

The steady increase in the cost of living is the most conspicuous economic phenomenon of the last ten years. The rise in prices has borne heavily upon the workingmen, for the increase has come in nearly every necessary of life. To this generally condition one necessary, life insurance, presents an extraordinary exception. Ordinary workingmen's life insurance, the so-called industrial insurance, can be purchased throughout the United States at a cost of about 20 per cent. less than it could five years ago; and in Massachusetts the workingman can obtain industrial life insurance from the savings banks at a cost of about 40 per cent. below what he was obliged to pay the industrial companies five and more years ago.

This reduction in cost is due to the coverage and formation of the Legislature of Massachusetts in establishing the system of savings bank insurance.

Reduction in Cost

When the agitation to establish this savings bank insurance system was started in the Fall of 1906, industrial insurance had been furnished through private corporations for a period of about thirty years. Throughout that time there had been no reduction in the cost of the industrial insurance. Since the agitation for savings bank insurance began the great corporations have made successive reductions in their rates, and have otherwise improved their policies and otherwise modified them, so that the premium cost is about twenty per cent. less than it was five years ago. This reduction means to the working people of the United States an annual saving of about $20,000,000.

This certainly is a great achievement, for the reduction in prices which the companies felt themselves obliged to make necessarily had to be general and apply to the whole of the United States.

But the Massachusetts system has done more in opening the way to the thrifty wage earners of Massachusetts to secure their insurance at a rate still more than 20 per cent. less than that which the industrial companies offer. How was this accomplished? It was accomplished by ascertaining the cause of the high cost of workingmen's insurance, and then removing that cause.

Industrial Insurance

Industrial insurance is the insurance taken out in small amounts by the wage earners, the policies ranging from $40 to $500, paid for in weekly premiums of from five cents to forty cents, collected at the homes of the insured. It was found that more than forty cents out of every dollar of premium was consumed in the expense of management. It was found, further more, that the greater part of this expense consisted in the amounts paid to the agents for soliciting policies and collecting premiums. A way was therefore sought of enabling the workingmen to get insurance without paying this heavy tax to the insurance solicitor.

It was also desired to provide for the wage earner the opportunity of getting insurance through an institution conducted wholly for his benefit, instead of one conducted for the benefit of the stockholders and the managers with whom they are allied.

With a view to cutting out all unnecessary expense in supplying the article, the savings banks were required to be content with such profits in insurance without paid solicitors, with no paid collection of premiums. In the first place—to those who were already thrifty depositors—in the most place, to those who were brought into relations with the banks through agencies to be established by the employers of labor, to be established by mutual benefit societies, or trade unions, or by co-operative bodies seeking to advance the welfare of the workingmen.

The savings bank insurance and old age annuity department, as it's name implies, seeks to do two things:

In the first place, to give cheaper life insurance to the wage earners who get their insurance from the industrial companies.

Secondly, to provide what has hitherto not existed anywhere in America—an opportunity to the wage earners of providing themselves with protection against old age.

The life insurance situation before this system was introduced was this: A large part of the wage earners of Massachusetts had life insurance in small amounts in so-called "industrial companies"; that is, companies which issue policies for from $200 to $500, with weekly or monthly payments collected at the homes of the insured. Over a million and a half of these policies are outstanding in the Commonwealth. The cost of these policies to the insured is nearly double the cost of ordinary life insurance.

This heavy cost is due in large part to the fact of the heavy expense incident to the system of soliciting insurances and collecting premiums through paid solicitors, and to the fact that a very large percentage of the policies lapse shortly after they are issued, this lapse resulting not only in loss to the insured but in great expenses to the companies, as the lapsed policies of an ordinary industrial policy is not covered usually until the policy has run about three years.

Reducing the Burden

It was believed that this heavy burden upon the wage earners in the high cost of life insurance could not be removed without in the first place doing away with the expensive system of soliciting insurance and collecting premiums, and in the next place having the insurance taken under conditions by which persons who are unable to carry policies will not, through neglect or zeal on the part of solicitors, take out policies which they cannot pay for without imperiling their financial condition.

The savings banks were selected as a means for providing this insurance because of the great good-will attaching to the savings banks which has already won for them the confidence of the laboring people, and which is during a large part of the working men into direct contact with the banks. They were selected also because of the remarkably small expense of conducting the business, the aggregate expenses of the 182 savings banks in Massachusetts being less than the amount which the banks are called upon to pay to the Commonwealth annually in taxes.

The system of savings bank life insurance is designed only for those who are thrifty or can be educated to become so.

Wherever the people's savings bank has been introduced, it has proved itself the greatest of all agencies of thrift, and has taken its rank with church and school as an inculcator of the virtues essential to our civilization. In many communities it is hard now to find a self-respecting person who has not some savings bank account, however small, and demand for savings bank life insurance and pensions will develop rapidly as the means of providing them are supplied.

We speak with pride of our charities. It is a pride which we can feel only in a most comparative degree as long as our present industrial system exists, and doubtless as long as it does exist our charities are a necessary adjunct. By the extension of those charities we mitigate to a certain extent the injustice of the conditions of life under which we live. But no one can look at our extended system of charities—absolutely necessary to avoid fearful injustice among our people—without conceiving that it is at best a poor resort in a great and rich country, endowed with the means of obtaining education as possibly no other country is. And we must look forward to the time when our people will be placed above the conditions where they must resort to charity for reasonable existence in their old age or in times of sickness or accident or unemployment.

A Wide Extension

That can only be done by the widest extension of the habit of saving. You cannot have that unless it is done through institutions which do it solely for the interests of those who ought to be benefited. That has been the great merit of our savings bank system.

See what the difference is between our savings bank system, as it is practiced, and the lesser for ninety years, and the present system of industrial life insurance:

The man who deposits his money in the savings bank—the poorest man—who lets five or ten or fifty dollars to deposit, has an investment which is just as good and bears practically just as high a return as if invested in the securities available to the richest men in the Commonwealth and in the country—whose safe return is such that these large savings banks, over-burdened with money—claim that people go to them and use them who ought not to use them. See what that is. We are obtaining the result which every right-thinking citizen of the Commonwealth must long for—for whose people—the result of giving to the poorest man in respect to investment the same opportunity that the greatest multimillionaire possesses.

The Savings Bank Insurance law provides the way for complete organization, by extending the savings bank functions to life insurance and old age annuities, the law providing, however, that, for the establishment of agencies. Under this system any savings institution may establish agencies without number at any place within the Commonwealth.

Campaign Necessary

It is possible, and was contemplated under the act, that the employers of Massachusetts (that is, all except such concerns as have a very small number of employes) should establish agencies for some savings institution bank, with a view, in the first place, to affording to the employes the greatest possible facilities for taking out old age annuities as well as insurance. Under the law, these same facilities may be provided through labor organizations, or welfare institutions, or through savings banks which do not themselves care to establish an insurance department, or have not been able to raise the necessary amount of capital required under the law.

The effective adoption of the savings bank insurance system by the wage earners of Massachusetts can be secured only by an extensive, persistent and continuous campaign of education as to the advantages which the system affords and the end sought to be accomplished. The necessity of that educational work is to be undertaken jointly through the voluntary co-operation of employers, trade unions, members of other welfare organizations, and unpaid public spirited men and women. Such education is an essential element of the system.

Employes, employers and the community must recognize the necessity for old age and life insurance is an integral part of the daily cost of living; that no wage is a "living wage" which does not permit the workingman to set apart each day or week or month a fixed sum for such provision for the future; that no workingman can be truly self-supporting and independent who does not make such provision, and that the savings bank will enable him to make that provision at the lowest possible cost.

Experience Encouraging

The machinery of the law, therefore, provides for extending throughout the Commonwealth in the most effective manner the opportunity to employers and to employes for securing old age annuities and life insurance. It is obvious, however, that the mere existence of these facilities would not alone result in any large percentage of the wage earners in Massachusetts taking insurance or old age annuities. As stated, it is essential that there be a wide dissemination among the working people of the opportunity which the law affords, and that the advantages to the wage earner to be made clear and kept constantly before them.

It is being demonstrated that the provision of the investment of agencies among employers will be the most effective means, not only of providing facilities, but of also providing that necessary knowledge among the advantages of the system without which it cannot succeed.

The system has been in operation only about three years, but the experience under the system as applied where agencies were established among employers, has been such as to encourage us that under this system, properly developed, the wage earners of Massachusetts will avail themselves of the opportunities afforded and develop an old age annuity system in harmony with American institutions and consistent with sound financial interests of the people of Massachusetts.
